“Fond memory paints the scenes of other years,
Green be their memory still.”

We cannot live forever in the happiness of college days and in dreams of the life to come, for we must pass from this sacred community of friendship into the great field of endeavor and accomplishment. When we shall have passed these portals and shall be encompassed by greater things in life, it should be a pleasure to turn the pages of the 1924 CAULDRON and think once again of the happy days spent upon the Mercer campus. If this purpose can be accomplished by this book, if, in later years, it can recall these days of pleasure, the staff shall feel themselves amply repaid for their work.

Outstanding Accomplishments of the Year

ONE THOUSAND STUDENTS

R. WEAVER came to Mercer as president in 1918. At that time he had dreams of the day when Mercer would have an enrollment of one thousand students. Now that is no longer a dream, and he is dreaming instead of the day when the enrollment will be fifteen hundred and then two thousand. Dr. Weaver is a dreamer, but not an idle dreamer. He is one of those who dream and then wake up and exert every effort to make their dreams come true. His dream of one thousand students has come true and we feel that his new dreams of even larger numbers of students will come true in due time. On the night of January 14 a banquet was given the students and friends of Mercer in celebration of the enrollment of the one thousandth student. That night preliminary plans were made to make the enrollment even larger next year.

THE SCHOOL OF LAW

The School of Law of Mercer University has gained distinction for itself during the year. It has recently been admitted to the American Association of Law Schools. This admission of the School of Law into this association places it on equal standing with the greatest in the country. This recognition of the law school has been due to the untiring efforts of Dean Fish, Dr. Harris, secretary of the school, and Dr. Moore, librarian of the school.

ATHLETICS

This has been Mercer's greatest year in athletics. She has developed and placed on the field a football team that has done greater things than any other in the history of the school. But the greatest achievement in the line of athletics has been attained by the basketball team. For the two years before this Mercer has had a great basketball team, but it has always lacked the final punch necessary to win a Southern championship. This year that final punch was developed. Playing six nights out of seven, the team defeated Georgia two games, rested Sunday night and Monday night began the S. I. A. A. Tournament. They defeated Millsaps, Louisiana College, Mississippi College, and Centre College, and thereby won the S. I. A. A. championship. We are proud of the individual players and of Coach Gillam, for it is these men to whom all the credit is due.

GLEE CLUB

In speaking of achievements, we must say a few words of the Glee Club. It is the greatest ever seen. This fact is admitted by spectators in all parts of the state. The director and the officers and members of the club have worked hard this year and have gotten up a program that will satisfy the most particular. The club has been given the highest praise everywhere it has been. It has been a great help to the university, for it has shown the people of the state what Mercer men can and are doing.

We have mentioned here only a few of the things done at Mercer. By looking through the following pages you will see more of what has been done.

Class Prophecy

MERGER UNIVERSITY has become the greatest aeroplane center in these, the United States of America. Boys from the remotest corners of the earth are attending classes daily—making the trip by way of flying machines. What used to be Tattnall Square Park has been turned into a landing field. Not one accident has been recorded in three years' time, not even so much as giving out of gas, which all goes to show how thoughtful Mercer men are beginning to be. Many of the theologs and lawyers (to be) bring their families along simply for the inspiration. They claim they can study better when they look into the faces of a happy wife and child.

The capitol of Georgia, instead of occupying the center of Tattnall Square Park, is situated on Mercer's campus. The president of Mercer also acts as governor of the state.

Mercer leads not only the South, but the whole United States of America in athletics. Her teams make trips abroad each year, seeking competition for world championships.

Now for the former classmates! Jimmie Garner is running a two-horse farm near Sparta. He is the proud father of eight healthy children. It is claimed that you can hear him shout “Whoa” for three miles around on a still morning.

Brantley and Gilmore are running a restaurant in Macon. They take great delight in serving Mercer boys free. Their only comment is this, “We used to eat at the Mercer mess hall.”

Davis, Bootle and Cowart are in politics, each being coroner of his respective county.

Wayne Hogan is with the Macon Railway & Light Co. His chief task is acting as motorman for special cars running to Wesleyan in Rivoli.

W. W. Jones is a national figure in the realm of biology. He has been successful in an experiment on “Bo” Railey. With the aid of Jones and monkey glands “Bo” has been able to call back fifty years. As soon as he had done this he married the beautiful young daughter of Dr. Harrison, “Bo” already being a retired capitalist who gained his fortune teaching economics at Mercer. He says his only worry now is keeping a four-year-old daughter away from carnivals. We attribute the cause of his worry to natural instincts. “As ye sow, so shall ye reap.”

Charles Berryman is professor of mathematics at Mercer, where he succeeded “Freshman” Holder, who, at the present, is running a dairy farm for Mercer. He says as long as he has charge of the milk he will guarantee Mercer boys will have no more throat trouble or Heebie Jeebies.

“Buck” Leach is chief of police at Newnan. S. H. Dyer is private detective under Chief Leach.
Arthur Richardson has turned "biologist" and goes throughout the land trying to live the proof of Darwin's theory of evolution. He has as his associates Shannon Mays and Tobias A. Caraker.

By accident "Pat" Muse learned football at Mercer. Now he is coach at one of Mercer's secondary schools, the University of Georgia. Elbert Fields has also followed athletics and is now manager of W. F. Sayer, a professional boxer, who astounded the world by "kayoing" Young Firpo in three rounds in the arena at Tignall, Georgia.

Garnett Keith has married. He keeps the children while his energetic little wife teaches school. He resides and she teaches in Savannah, Ga.

Hackett, Bivins and Meier are all C. P. A.'s. They have offices in Brunswick. Daniel Merritt and James Artemus Ruffin are running a beauty parlor at Barnesville. Their chief occupation is massaging Gordon boys, getting them ready to enter Mercer.

The Yellow Cab Company has claimed its share of Mercer men. We find at the steering wheels such able-bodied men as Emory Lee, Whitaker and Foster.

Henry Shell is a professional dog trainer. He claims to have a bird dog that trees coons as well as birds. His dog farm is located at Bainbridge, Ga.

We find in our large Southern churches for pastors such men as H. V. Smith, Pope, Farmer and Coalson. DeWitt Talmage Buice is in Japan as a missionary. He says earthquakes never cross his mind.

Clegg, Bailey and Barron are all coaching football in New England. Mike Henderson is a retired capitalist living in Athens, watching Mercer romp on Georgia year in and year out.

Cousins, known to Mercer boys as "Kinfolks," is teaching history at Mercer, acting as assistant to Percy Scott, Jr., whereas Father Flippin is hoeing the easy row. His chief occupation is writing out examinations for his son and supervising the housework.

Having proved his worth as an editor-in-chief (time out while the editor buys the prophet a dope), Henly Fugate is now acting in that capacity with the Macon News.

Parker Highsmith is a politician in Appling county and has held every office in the county except tax collector. He failed here because Eidsel Ford refused to be his bondsman.

The Co-op Store has grown to be an immense concern. Sears-Roebuck is suffering greatly as a result and is threatened with bankruptcy. Jowers is president of Co-op & Co. There is a branch house at Wray, Ga., which deals only in mail orders.

There was a time when Mercer was a small part of Macon—now Macon is only a part of Mercer.

Thus we have Mercer twenty-five years from today.

(Signed) M. C. Lassetter, Prophet.

All-Time Freshmen

It is with pleasure, dear reader, that we present to you Mercer's all-time Freshmen. These men entered here Freshmen and will leave Freshmen. Some will be given degrees, but all will remain Freshmen whether or not they are given a degree.

Those familiar with the student body could recognize these men without this note of explanation, but to those unfamiliar with Mercer men, I will present the most outstanding of them. In a prominent position (kneeling) on the front row we find Max Lasseter. Max is classed as a Senior and will receive a degree this spring, but one look at the picture will convince you that he will always be a Freshman. Then we see Womack with an open book (the only time he has been caught in that position since he has been at Mercer). He is another who easily makes our all-time Freshman team. Burch Roberts is next to Womack in the picture. We would not have thought such a thing of Burch, but he put himself in the picture. "Ted" Ashby is rightly entitled to his place on the front row. Sid Ellison placed himself in the company, so we will make no comment. Joe Drewry can be seen in the rear by the door. Joe is classed as a Junior, but he becomes more of a Freshman each year he is here. Standing in a prominent position on the extreme right is Roy Hurst, our honorable and affable manager of the Glee Club. Roy is another of whom we would have said nothing had he kept out of the company, but we say that anyone who is so careless of his companions lays himself open to comments of any kind.

We have mentioned only a few of the most prominent. We are now willing to leave it to you to decide if Mercer could not hold her own in any competition for the best bunch of all-time Freshmen.

School of Theology

Mercer University is the oldest theological institution supported by Southern Baptists. The resolution passed in 1831, which led to its founding, limited the students to pious young men preparing for the ministry. There are only two Baptist theological schools in America older than Mercer University—Newton Theological Institution, 1819, and Colgate Theological Seminary, 1825. It was the limited number of students who desired to prepare themselves for the ministry during the period of the war between the States that led the board of trustees to discontinue the theological seminary. Conditions have changed since that day, and the present enrollment of theological students is much greater than that prior to the war.

Many men who are called to preach do not have the time or the finances required to completely equip themselves for their work. The courses in the School of Theology have been arranged so that these men can get the greatest amount of preparation in the limited time at their disposal. Courses are arranged so that men may, in the quickest possible time, complete the work for the non-collegiate degrees offered. These degrees are: Th.G., Th.B., and Th.M., and are offered to theological students who cannot meet the requirements for regular college standing.

C. L. McGinty, D.D., is dean of the School of Theology. He has done and is doing much to raise the standard of this school. He is a graduate of Mercer and has the work of Mercer at heart. He is a man well prepared for the work he is doing. He understands the needs of his students and has arranged his work so as best to meet these needs.
School of Journalism

"The Aurora bathes the dawn with an effulgence that turns back a starry mantle and bespeaks the approach of day"—that, in substance, is a quotation from the chapel address of Professor George M. Sparks, of the Journalism Faculty, in contrasting earlier attempts at journalism by the old writers with the current methods of the publication of news.

With ten years of practical newspaper work behind him, he is able to draw from wide experience in teaching embryo Brisbanes, Runyons, and Greeleys that a rhetorical barrage is found in the repertoire of the political stump-speaker, but not in that of the modern newspaper scribe. The ability to jam a host of multi-syllable words into a single sentence sometimes sounds "high-browish," but as our friend Mr. Goldberg might say, "It does not mean anything."

The increasing demand of newspapers over the country for the injection of new blood into the Fourth Estate—educated staff members with a background, and not mere parrot reporters—has necessitated the establishment of the departments of journalism in practically all the better institutions of higher learning. Mercer, in line with the movements of other educational institutions, offers thorough training to those who have any desire to enter the field of journalism—rapidly becoming a most potent factor in the shaping of public opinion, and certainly the best recognized informative agency.

Courses offered include theoretical and practical phases of the subject. Young pen-pushers are taught that daybreak is just plain daybreak, and not something about an Aurora crowding out a starry mantle. Subscribers to a newspaper do not look for lucubration on the glories of the dawn on the front page. When they want this they blow the dust off that copy of Milton or someone else who starved to death writing it. Professor Sparks says that "a spade is a spade" and because it is inelegant is not your fault.

That's what the newspaper game amounts to—simple words and few of them.

Hugh Awtrey.
The School of Commerce

The rise of commercial education is due to the fulfillment of a need. Its advent into collegiate training took place only thirty-six years ago. The result of this type of training has justified its existence by its contribution of the body of cultural and informative material contained in its courses.

The School of Commerce gives its students a body of knowledge and mental training which it has found, through exhaustive research, to apply to all lines of business. These principles are covered in addition to the usual courses in English, mathematics and general economics by courses in finance, accounting, marketing, transportation, insurance and management.

The School of Commerce is the greatest of all civilizers. It gives forth the knowledge which feeds, clothes, transports and houses the people, thus touching them at a hundred points. The ideal commercial course is one that is planned to meet the demands of those who wish to train for the business world. The Mercer University School of Commerce makes it possible for a student to obtain this course through the subjects of salesmanship, business English, business administration, marketing, banking, and transportation, in addition to the courses offered in accounting.

The Mercer University Night School of Commerce offers to the young business men of the city an opportunity to better fit themselves for business service and success. This school seeks to elevate business to a profession. It aims not only to give the technical training essential to business efficiency, but also to prepare men for a high type of leadership in the business world.

W. J. Bradley came to Mercer in the fall of 1922 as dean of the School of Commerce. He is a man well fitted for this position, a graduate of Mercer and of Chicago. He has taught sociology, economics, political science, and history in the North Georgia Agricultural College, in the Oklahoma Baptist University, and South Georgia State Normal College. He is an experienced teacher and a man who, by his personality, commands the love and respect of all the students.

Albert Hackett.
School of Education

In accordance with their belief that education is of primary social importance and their belief that the duty of a denominational institution of learning is to give the greatest social service possible, the Board of Trustees of Mercer University established the School of Education to train Mercer men for social leadership. This school is one of the younger schools at Mercer. It provides the prospective teacher with the best training that he can receive for his chosen work.

Working in co-operation with the schools of education in the different universities, the State Board of Education gives certificates to men and women who have completed certain required amounts of work in education. There are three certificates given: the Professional College Certificate, the Provisional College Certificate, and the Life Certificate. Any of these three certificates may be obtained by Mercer students in the School of Education.

A wide variety of courses are offered, giving training in all branches of the field of education. There are courses in the technical as well as the practical side of education. A degree can be awarded to students in this school as well as to those in any other school.

Peyton Jacob is dean of the School of Education, and it is under his leadership that the school is growing and branching out into different lines of work. Professor Jacob has recently had a year's leave of absence, which he spent at Peabody College working on his doctor's degree. He has completed the required amount of work, and will be awarded his degree as soon as he shall complete his dissertation. Mercer is fortunate to have such men as Professor Jacob to head her departments. The success of these departments is assured under such able leadership.
Public Speaking Classes

Four and one-half years ago public speaking was part of the English course at Mercer University and claimed the attention of about thirty students. Today it is a separate and distinct subject, and at the beginning of the winter term had one hundred and fourteen men and women enrolled on the class book.

This only goes to show the good work that has been accomplished in the time since Dr. A. P. Montague became dean of the university, taking charge of the Latin and Public Speaking courses. When he came the subject was a mediocre one. He has built it to the most popular on the campus, and the future bids fair to see more students clamoring for entrance than can be accommodated.

The success may all be attributed to Dr. Montague, that shining example of the distinguished Southern gentleman. His personality is one that cannot fail to endear him to all who are associated with him. His own enthusiasm and knowledge of oratory cannot but inspire to greater heights all who come within the sound of his thrilling and loving words. His reasonableness and ability to understand cannot fail to create love in the hearts of all who know him.

Dr. Montague is a graduate of the University of Virginia, and has been connected with educational work since leaving that institution. He was dean of George Washington University for twenty-two years; president of Furman College for five years; president of Howard College, Alabama, and president of Columbia College, Florida, for seven years, coming from the Land of Flowers to Mercer, where his admiring friends and students hope to see him remain.

W. E. COBB.
School of Pre-Engineering

An engineer must have training that will help him to be a better citizen and aid him to succeed in whatever project he undertakes. Engineering demands thorough training in the applications of the fundamental principles of physics and enables one to think out solutions of the problems of business and play.

To meet the need for thoroughly trained engineers Mercer University has established a three-year pre-engineering course. When a student has completed this course and one year's work in an approved engineering school he will be awarded the A.B. degree by Mercer University.

Some universities are now putting their engineering schools on a graduate basis. They will admit none to them who do not have college degrees. However, they will admit men who have completed regular three-year engineering courses and will let their first year's work in the engineering school count as their last year's work on their degree. Mercer's course prepares men for admission under these conditions.

This School of Pre-Engineering is the youngest at the university, but is rapidly growing in favor and popularity with the students.

Managers

Henry Shell, football manager, worked hard throughout the season and gained the praise of the coaches and players.

Elbert Fields, basketball manager, is well known as a manager to the fans of Macon. He has been assistant manager to nearly every team since he has been here and has been one who stayed on the job.

Mike Herndon, baseball manager, has fixed us up a good schedule for this spring. We hope he can get the boys to win all their games.
Stanley L. Robinson, Head Coach

The fall of 1923 found Mercer entering upon an administration of a new coaching staff. Eager eyes turned upon Coach Stanley Robinson, as he was to open the year's athletics with the football team. It required but a few days for the candidates to recognize that they had as their head a remarkable man, both in ability and in personality.

The first test of what he had accomplished with the material was witnessed when Mercer played Georgia to a 7-0 score in one of the hardest fought games of the year. The next and probably the greatest test as to the strength of our team was shown when we met the strong Furman team, which had previously beaten the much-noted University of Virginia, and sent the Furmanites home sorrowing with the short end of a 6-3 score. Although the rest of the season was not as satisfactory as the first, it was not due to any fault of the coach or team, but to circumstances of fate that seem to follow each Mercer team that enters on the gridiron. Yet, we firmly believe that the season, as a whole, was wholly successful, and we are proud of the team that represented Mercer in the fall of '23.

Seeing the wonderful results that Coach Robinson obtained in his first start, and realizing the wonderful material that we have for next year, we cannot help but look forward with the greatest anticipation to the glory that the season of '24 has in store for Mercer.
Captain “Kid” Cecil

Captain “Kid” Cecil had the honor of leading the team through the most prosperous season ever experienced by a Mercer football team. It was a season that found Mercer holding Georgia to a lone touchdown and holding Florida to the low score of 19 to 6. Both of these feats startled the gridiron world. Another accomplishment which surprised the South was Mercer’s 6 to 3 victory over the Furman Hornets after they had defeated the powerful team from the Old Dominion. Much of the above prosperity is due to Padre. He is full of ability to lead men and to general a football team. No one has ever been heard to criticise his generalship or his football playing. The “Kid” has the honor of making the third longest run in the history of Southern football for 1923. He ran eighty-seven yards for a touchdown from the opening kick-off in the Mercer-Oglethorpe game on Grant Field. Cecil came to Mercer from the Volunteer State as did others of our football team. May our sister state continue to send us men with the ability of Cecil and others who came to us from her. Every Mercer supporter is glad that “Padre” has one more year in which to general the Mercer team. May he be even greater in his last year than he has been in the other three.
Colonel "Red" Simmons, captain-elect for 1924, is another God-send from Tennessee. The colonel is the most powerful man in the Mercer line. If you don't believe this statement, ask Mr. Joe Bennett. "Red's" teammates have shown their confidence in him by choosing him to lead them in 1924. With "Red" to lead and the others to help him, Mercer can expect great things in the coming season. "Red" is also an outstanding figure on a basketball floor—but you will hear about that later. Besides his athletic ability, "Red" has the ability to make friends. He is probably the most popular man on Mercer’s campus. He was mentioned for all-S. I. A. A.

"Consuello" Smith is powerful, gentlemen, powerful in football, basketball, and baseball; but we are talking about football now. He is one of the hardest tacklers in the South; the man tackled by him needs your sympathy. Lambert was hampered slightly this year by injuries, the worst of which was a dislocated shoulder. But he spent little time worrying over this matter. He was selected as end on the mythical all-S. I. A. A. We are thankful that "Crook" has another year with us.
Mike Herndon is another powerful factor in Mercer's line. He has donned a Mercer football uniform for the last time. This fact has been the cause of much regret on the part of many loyal supporters of the team. Mike also has the honor of being chosen on Morgan Blake's mythical all-S. I. A. A. team. Mike is like the colonel. He has a double ability and is running "Red" a close race for the place as most popular Mercerian.

Beverly Gaines has also played his last game. Everyone is sorry that this is so because he has often been referred to as the best player on Mercer's team. There are some who may not agree with this, but all will admit that Beverly has always acquitted himself well and has helped to hold his side of the line.

Barron has fought his last battle for Mercer. The time of parting is always sad, but it is sadder to those who remain when men of real ability leave them. Barron's leaving will be regretted by us all. He has always fought hard whether on the varsity or the scrubs and his perseverance has been rewarded.
BELA LANCASTER is following in the footsteps of his brother Carl, and if you will believe us you will know that he is in good tracks. Carl was the hardest fighting guard who ever played at Mercer, and here is Bela trying to do better. He has two more years to strike at the record and he is liable to set a new one. We are sure to have one strong place in the line as long as Bela is here.

“Dick” CARSON played his first year in varsity football this year and he played it well. Although not as large as Sid Johnson, the center who preceded him, “Dick” filled the place Sid left with credit to himself and to Mercer. “Dick” also has two more years to go, and after he spends another summer in the Flint River swamps he should indeed be a powerful man.

SID ELLISON is another Tennessean, of whom Mercer is proud. Sid was strong at the end position until some one sat on his knee and put him out of commission. He seems to be followed by hard luck, as last year he had a jaw broken in the first game of the season. But as long as the jinx will leave him alone Sid ranks with the best of them. Sid also knows his stuff with a basketball and baseball.
NORMAN FELDER upheld the reputation which he won last year as a broken field runner. If we were to say no more we would have said enough because he was among the best. His reputation is one that is envied by many. Norman is speed itself and can always be counted on when ground is needed. Norman also has another year ahead and it should be a great one for him and for his school.

"JACK" BATE prepped at Gordon and was under such a good coach that Mercer had to get Coach Mosely to come down and help with her teams. "Jack" plays his position at half well and shows plenty of drive and speed. "Jack" has played only one year of varsity football, so by simple arithmetic we can see that he has two to go. We are confidently expecting great things from him in these two years.

MARION ROBERTS played his first year this year which fact was shown when he got left in Birmingham on the way home from Mississippi. But although he may get train schedules confused, he never gets his signals crossed, and when he is called on to carry the ball he carries it—forward, too. We are looking to him for some great stuff in the next two years.
Neufville "Shorty" Poore knew just enough football when he came to Mercer to be ready to learn lots more. He has learned it, too. He is built for speed and close to the ground. The statistics are not at hand, but I believe that if they were they would show that "Shorty" gained more ground than any other Mercer man in 1923. "Shorty" has one more year at Mercer, and the Oracle tells me that it will be a great one for him and for Mercer. May these predictions come true.

Dave Rice is another valuable man who has another year to play for Mercer. He is from Tennessee, and, like the others from that state, he is a power on the football field. Playing at half and full he broke up and intercepted many attempted passes and stopped other plays which had gotten by the linesmen. His defensive ability is not all. He is in the midst of the offensive and is an all-round valuable man.

Tarzan Bowling was one of the biggest sensations on Mercer's team this season. He had a way of driving through a line when it looked like such a thing was next to impossible. Tarzan expects to graduate this year so his time must be over. We wish he could have come sooner and stayed longer.
"Son" Sammons showed some real football this year. He has scrubbed for two years before, but has been a little too light to hold down one of the wing positions. But this year he came into his own and showed "Robbie" some real stuff. "Son" is to be praised for his two years as a scrub and for his real work done this year. Boys, his toe is somewhat educated, too. Don't forget that.

Eli McDonald is another one of Mercer's men recruited from the Volunteer State. Like all the others, he is a real football player. He has just completed his first year on the gridiron for Mercer and has two more to go. Syracuse, Georgia and all the others had better look out for "Mac" and the other boys when the season for 1924 rolls around.

"Coot" Lynch is utility man. This is a baseball term, but it must be used in referring to "Coot's" football work. He has come nearer playing in every position than any other man on the team, and the strange thing is that he plays so well wherever he is put. "Coot" is always ready to fill any gap. Men like "Coot" are the ones who keep a team ready for the field.
"Little" Reese weighs 175 pounds, even though they do call him little. He is 175 pounds of drive and carries with that a lot of twisting and dodging. Although he was handicapped this year with a bad knee, he showed the power and is expected to show even more next year. He is a good halfback for any man's team.

"Scotty" Young educated his toe in Scotland and can kick a football more different ways than any man you ever saw. After educating his toe he came to Mercer to prepare for the ministry and play football on the side. His punting ability is an asset to the team, and besides this he has the necessary drive to go through a line.

Time out for Morgan. Although he is a catcher by trade, "Hop" decided to try his hand at football last fall and it went well. "Hop" is still trying to find out who threw that casualty building on him in the Chattanooga game. He will be hostile if he ever finds out, so let's keep it a secret. Look out for "Hop" in next year's football!
Reid Hill has always been ready when called on and every time he has been called on he has made coach glad that he had him to put in the game. Reid has two more years to fight for Mercer on the gridiron. With such men as he is we ought to feel optimistic over our future teams.

Baxter Coke is the man who plays with fifty-pound dumbbells as any other man would with three-pound ones. Anyone will know that a man who plays like this should be able to do his part and more on the football field. Baxter was able and he did. We regret that he has played his last game for Mercer.

Dewey Jowers has only been with us two years, but we are all hoping that he will be here another one. He is a man who can be called on at any time who will be ready and waiting to do his best to bring victory to Mercer. He is a linesman who would be welcome on the squad of any coach.
Bailey is a man who will always put his best into the game. There is no more that could be asked of any man than this. He shows fight and determination at all times. No one likes to see such men finish their college days. But Bailey's time has come, so we must soon bid him a reluctant good-bye.

Womack is a hard fighting, dependable man who stayed with the squad throughout the season, although he was not called on to play as often as some of the other men. When he did play he showed a good brand of football. Men like him are the ones that keep the team in shape and in fighting trim. Womack will be here next year to show the same spirit.

Ike Cowart was handicapped this year by a late start and by a little surplus flesh. But do not let that lead you to believe that Ike was not in the scrap. He was called on to play in many of the games and always did his part well. The big boy is an idol of the fans who like to see him put his big frame into action.

Freshman Football

Under the tutelage of E. Parker Mosley, coach and manager of the Mercer Freshman football teams for the past several years, the Freshman players of '23 developed a team that was known all over the South for its fighting spirit as well as for its ability to put in the needed punch to carry the ball across. The purpose of all first-year teams is to develop men to be used on the varsity in later years, and for the accomplishment of this work Coach Mosley is without peer in all the South. His work here has met with universal favor on the gridiron as well as in other lines of sport where he has excelled.

Starting with men that had everything to learn in football, he soon developed a team that could hold even the strong varsity to a close score in an afternoon's work.

The first engagement of the season was held against the Madison Aggies on September 28, the eve of the historic Mercer-Georgia game. The game was hard, and only the score on a fumble by Smith, end, and a touchdown by Glover in the last few minutes of play gave the game to the Junior Baptists, 13-0.

The second game was a heart-breaking loss to the Auburn Cubs. The Mercer team was handicapped by injuries sustained from a hard week's scrimmage against the varsity. They yielded the game to Auburn only after forty-eight men had been used to wear down the fourteen Baptists who had made the trip. The game was not scoreless on the part of the Freshmen, for a pass from Lawrence to Bradley scored from midfield in the last minute of play.

In two games with G. M. C. one was lost and the other won by the Freshmen. The first was lost on a slippery field, 12-0. The second was a great success for the Baptists. With Lawrence, Stein and Parks starring, the Rats downed the Cadets by three touchdowns.

The Georgia Freshmen administered defeat to the Rats of Mercer, 21-0. Our men fought hard, but they could not work the hard Georgia defense.

The season was a great one and much credit must go to Coach Mosley, who tutored the machine that promises to step into the shoes of the varsity unless the regulars watch closely. Among the best players must be mentioned Lawrence, Glover and Presto, all of whom did good work during the season.

Numerals were awarded to twelve men: Backfield, Lawrence, Glover, Presto, Stein, Parks and Bradley; linesmen, Tipton, Smith, Dunn, Grant, Fleming and Banks.

Mercer, Champions of S. I. A. A.
COACH "TINK" GILLAM is one of the new staff of coaches. There were some who did not favor a change in the coaching staff of Mercer, but these have all been convinced that a change was for the best, and have decided that the best coaches in the country were obtained to supervise the work of Mercer's athletics. During his first year "Tink" has developed a championship team. His team has beaten everything in the state, has defeated the last year's champions of the S. I. C. Tournament, and has won this year's S. I. A. A. Tournament. I cannot see what more could be expected of any man. Mercer's basketball season has been an unusual success and much of the credit of this success is due to Coach Gillam. In the recent S. I. A. A. Tournament his last year's team, Mississippi College, played Mercer and the ability of this team showed that "Tink" had taught them something about basketball. Mercer had to use all her strength to conquer this team, but it was done. This conquering of Mississippi led to the championship of the S. I. A. A. We are all pleased with the work of Coach Gillam and hope that he will remain at Mercer for many years to continue the good work which he has been doing here.

BYRON LAMBERT "CROOK" SMITH, captain of Mercer's basketball team, which is the champion of the South. Last year in the S. I. C. Tournament Crook made a name for himself and was a unanimous selection for all-Southern. This year throughout the season and the tournament he has upheld this name as the greatest floor man in the South. All-Southern selections have not yet been made, but 'Crook' makes ours easily, as does the entire Mercer team. We realize that we are a little partial and that there are other good players in the South, but we cannot leave any Mercer man of our pick, so how can we put others on? We rejoice to think that Lambert has another year to spend at Mercer. We do not see how he can do greater things than he has done this year, so we will be content to hope and believe that next year he will do as well as he has done this year. If he does this all will be satisfied.
MANLY McWILLIAMS, Guard

"Mac" has probably played his last game for Mercer. We hate to think that the time has come for him to leave. He plays the position of stationary guard as no one else can play it. He seems to know by instinct what the man with the ball is going to try to do, so he immediately puts himself in position to keep the other man from doing it. His last season was marred by a wrenched knee, but he did enough before his injury and since his recovery to make a place on our All-Southern selection.

"Red" SIMMONS, Center

Three years ago "Red" was as awkward looking on a basketball court as a Dutch windmill. But a change has been wrought. He has developed the Simmons' spurn which is sure to get a basket when one is needed. He is a good shot, hard working floorman and a guard of unusual ability. If he continues to improve as he has in the past there will be none who can equal him next year.

GEORGE HARMON, Guard

George has received well-deserved praise from more capable pens than ours, but it is our privilege to say a few words about him. For the last three years he has been a sensation in Southern basketball. He has the art of dribbling down to its finest points, and after he has dribbled he can shoot his goal. Mercer is fortunate in having such a man and especially fortunate that he has another year to play.

EMMET POPE, Forward

"Bubber" was a find of the tournament two years ago, and since that time he has been proving to the skeptics that he is all that those who found him claim for him. He is a fast man, a hard fighter, and one capable of doing some of the closest guarding ever seen. "Bubber" can also hit the old hoop when points are needed. We are glad that he, too, will be with us another year.

"RED" LAWRENCE, Utility

"Rusty" is just what we have him down for—utility. He has played every position on the team except center, and he may be used there if he ever grows any taller. He is fast, cool-headed, a good guard and a fair shot. He came at a time when it was hard for a new man to make a place, but he has made it and has three more years in which to fill it.
SIDNEY ELLISON, Guard

"Sid" has improved more since last year than any man on the team and he was no shabby player last year. He had a chance to show his stuff while McWilliams was hurt and he has shown it. He has far surpassed all expectations of even his greatest admirers. Although he plays stationary guard, he knows how to ease up the court and grab two points when they are needed. In doing this he does not slight his guard position because he is always back in position when he should be.

CECIL CADERHEAD, Forward

Cecil has worked hard the last two years and this year his labor has been rewarded. He, too, came at the time when it was hard to show the coaches that there was a place for any more men, but by his tireless efforts he has shown that there is a place for him and that he is entirely capable of filling the place. He will be here at least another year to fill the place which he has made for himself.

JOHN PARKER, Utility

John's time at Mercer is too short. He has only one year in which he might be eligible to play varsity ball. He has shown up well this year, and we regret that he will not be here longer to do greater things.

ROBERT PINKSTON, Utility

"Bobby" is just beginning his career as an athlete at Mercer. This is his Sophomore year. He has made the basketball squad and has shown that in years to come he will be capable of filling any vacancy on the squad except center. He would have to grow a little before he could do that. "Bobby" plays baseball as well as basketball. He made the team his first year, though he was not eligible to play in all the games.

TOM NALLS, Forward

Tom has played his first year. He has shown great flashes of speed in the games in which he has played. He is a good shot and should develop into a great player in his remaining years at Mercer. He has two more years in which to play.
Tige Stone has gone. We see him here because he was captain of the 1923 team. But although he is not here in person, he is here in the memory of every Mercer man. Tige is the greatest pitcher who has ever represented Mercer. He was awarded every honor that could be awarded a man. For three years he was chosen on the All-Southern selection. For the same three years he was captain of Mercer's team. Tige is a Macon boy. He had four years' training at Lanier High School before he came to Mercer. He served Mercer faithfully for four years. Now he has gone on to a larger field. He is now with the St. Louis Cardinals, where he went soon after completing the 1923 season at Mercer. He had a few chances to show what he could do last year and he showed them. This year we hope to hear great things from him during the early training season and even greater things after the season starts. We are all hoping that from some place we can find a man to fill the gap left by the departure of Tige from the Mercer line-up.

"Hop" Morgan is a fitting successor to Tige as captain of the team. And there is one thing we are certain of—if we can find a man to take Tige's place in the box we have a man who can receive all he can deliver because we still have "Hop" for the receiver's place. He has caught Tige for the last two years and has been a capable battery mate for the great little pitcher. "Hop" is loved and admired by all the players and students. He has the needed knowledge of the game, to be captain of a team, and to direct it in action. He is cool and level-headed under fire. With "Hop" as captain and a number of men left over from 1923, we are expecting Coach Mosely to do great things on the diamond this spring.

Tennis Team, 1923

This team represented Mercer in the S. I. A. A. Tournament, which was held in May, 1923, on the courts of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga. Edwin Davis was the entry in the singles, while Daniel Merritt and Jackson composed the doubles team. These men did well for Mercer, even though they were defeated. With them representing her, Mercer was runner-up in both the singles and doubles. Davis was defeated by a representative of Georgia Tech in the singles and Mercer's doubles team was defeated by the team of Emory. This was the second team from Mercer to enter this tournament in recent years. It is to be hoped that in the future Mercer will give more attention to tennis and that her teams may be victorious in future contests.

The "M" Club has recently been reorganized at which time the above officers were elected. They are trying to promote greater interest in Mercer's athletics. At present the club is trying to raise funds to furnish and equip a permanent club room on the campus. This room could be used as a lounging place for club members and might furnish lodging for any visiting alumni who are letter men. We hope they will succeed in their efforts and that they will be able to do much to promote Mercer's athletics.

Society Day is an annual event at Mercer. On February 22, 1924, was held the fourth of these annual entertainments. Much interest has always been shown in the events of the day. There are many young lady visitors to the campus to take part in the festivities. This year, as a fitting climax to the day, Mercer defeated the University of Georgia’s basketball team that night.

The College Band

Under the leadership of Dan Davis, the band has become an accomplished organization. They can really play and have played a large part in the winning of many of Mercer's athletic contests. They can always put new pep into the cheering stands.

Because of the recognized need for their presence at the games, they were given two trips with the team last fall. They were taken to Athens and helped the team hold Georgia to the 7-0 score on Sanford Field.

They were also taken to Atlanta when Mercer played Oglethorpe on Grant Field. Thanks are due to the citizens of Macon, who, by their contributions, made these trips possible for the band.

His Dreams Realized

Graduation was just over. Twilight descended upon the campus. "Lovers' Haven," a cozy nook among the age-old trees, was occupied.

"I have sought you," he murmured, for years. "How can I describe the pangs which tore my soul when at times you seemed to be drifting from me? I can scarcely believe that now you are mine, that my yearnings are to be satisfied. I know well that others have wanted you, and have failed in their quest. How can my lips say what my soul feels when I realize that you, the idol of all the classes, are mine alone? You are the light of my dreams, the goal of my desire. My heart throbs with unutterable joy at the prospect of imparting the glad tidings to my dear old parents."

Silence. Silence broken only by the fervent whisper, "A skin you love to touch!" as he passionately pressed to his breast his diploma.—Ex.

SHOCKING!

As I sit here pondering wheezes
I can feel the springtime breezes
As they seem to say 'tween sneezes,

They sat on the porch at midnight,
Their lips were tightly pressed.
The old man gave the signal
And the bulldog did the rest.

She lay in his arms and snuggled her head against his neck. A rush of emotion surged through her. Tenderly he caressed her, and she closed her eyes in delight.
"Poor kitty! did I step on your tail?"

Helen had a cough,
Of it we were not told.
Next morning it was learned
That twelve of us caught cold.

"Will you let me?" said the student,
As he quickly doffed his cap;
But the maiden with a right hook
Handed him an awful slap.
And the student's face was crimson
As he stood before the lass,
But he finished out his sentence,
"Will you kindly let me pass?"

Mercer and the Merchants of Macon

The time was, and it was not so long ago, when Mercer and the merchants of Macon did not co-operate so well. But that time is forever past. A new period has come. When Mercer needs or wants anything she knows that she can call on the merchants and professional men of Macon and that her needs and wants will be provided for. No matter what the nature of the desire it will be satisfied if Mercer and her representatives show the men of Macon that the cause is a worthy one.

When money was needed for athletics the students were sent to call on the men of Macon and interest them in season tickets for four seasons to Mercer's contests. The men of Macon responded willingly and freely. By their responses and purchases of these season tickets the Athletic Board of Control was enabled to plan with an idea of providing for the greater athletic program which was undertaken this year and which has led to the recent great achievements of Mercer's teams. If the men of Macon had not responded the Board of Control would not have been able to undertake such a program, and it is very likely that Mercer would not have gained the honor and distinction which she has gained because she would not have had the proper coaching staff.

When Dr. Weaver and the Board of Control needed advice concerning the finding of a new coach, the men of Macon were ready and willing to do all that they could do for this cause.

When the band was needed in Athens and in Atlanta and there were no funds for transportation and expenses, the men of Macon were called on and these loyal supporters again responded gladly. The band was able to make these two trips and were able to play a large part in helping the team to fight on the field.

But these supporters do not always wait to be called on. Sometimes they look for the need themselves. They looked around and figured a little after Mercer had won the S. I. A. A. championship and decided that the team should be rewarded in some way, and they decided that the best way was to send them to Atlanta to see the S. I. C. Tournament. They talked around among themselves and then generously gave the captain of the team enough money to pay his team's expenses to Atlanta.

We, of Mercer, should feel proud that there are such men in Macon because they are essential to the best progress of the school. We are thankful to them for what they have done and wish to take this occasion of expressing our thanks to them.

WHERE SATISFACTION IS A CERTAINTY
The Sophomore's Lament

Oh, worthy friends, listen to our tale,
And shed a gentle tear;
Our sorrows now are manifold,
Increasing year by year;
An age-old custom's been upset,
Our rights fast disappear.

From out the past a vision comes
Of what we used to be:
A mighty clan with belts upraised
(Oh, noble memory!)
Above a group of cringing Frosh,
Who crave our sympathy.

We hear the fall of blow on blow,
And see the red weals rise;
No sweeter sounds assail our ears
Than pleading Freshmen's cries;
Their wails are met with cool sang-froid—
Whatever that implies!

Those golden days have passed away,
A fact we now deplore;
No longer rings triumphant yells
Of valiant Sophomore!
For stripped we've been of all the pow'r
That we possessed of yore.

And who, you'll ask, has done this deed,
Minused our plus of fun,
And cubed our suff'ring's by the score
Until our joys are none,
And made the mighty name of "Soph"
A veritable pun?

Oh, promise, friends, you'll ne'er reveal
What we confide to you;
We fear to speak, to even breathe
Lest some dread charge accrue—
To use a loathsome metaphor:
"The Green has made us blue!"

Our blood, despite the faculty,
Doth boil and surge within,
As we behold, each morn and eve,
The Frosh's haughty grin—
Remove restrain!—a sight you'll see
Delightfully sanguine.

We'd resurrect the rite "to haze"
(Now suff'ren' from mishap),
And take from off its sacred peg
Our old and trusty strap,
March forth and vent our wrath upon
Inverted Freshmen's lap . .

O, woe is us, our fame's departed,
We gnash our teeth in grief!
This gangrene plague has made us ill,
In vain we seek relief!
Our craft, "The Soph-Ship" sinks unwept
Upon an emerald reef.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE

60 OFFICERS AND TEACHERS
FOR 600 STUDENTS

The Oldest College for Women
In the World

Wesleyan is enjoying the greatest era of prosperity in its history, because:

1. Great additions to the buildings and equipment have been made within the last few years; and seven new departments have been created.
2. Wesleyan has sixty officers and teachers, six hundred students, and three thousand alumnae.
3. The curricula are broad and extensive, offering the largest possible opportunity for election of courses in accordance with the gifts and tastes of individual students.
4. The Conservatory of Music and School of Fine Arts offer unsurpassed advantages. Fifty new pianos and three new organs. Leading artists of the world are heard in the Wesleyan chapel.
5. The gymnasium, swimming pool, and outdoor sports contribute to Wesleyan's remarkable health record.
6. The rates are reasonable.

Afterthought

March 7, 1924, 4:00 P.M.

All the copy is now ready to be sent in and is now waiting until we can finish this to send in with it. We hardly know whether we have any thought at all, not to speak of an afterthought. There are some things in the CAULDRON which we might want to be changed, but it is too late now to make changes. We regret that some men would not co-operate with us by having their pictures made. Since they would not do this, there are a number of men who are not well represented in here. This is not our fault—at least, we don't think it is. We tried to get every man to have himself in the CAULDRON, but we could not wait forever for them to attend to this matter.

We hope you will be pleased with the book as it is. We are not expecting every man to be satisfied—that would be too much. But we do hope that the majority will be. We know we are going to get several "cussing outs" by dissatisfied men, but we won't mind them. We will say again here as we said in the foreword—if in later years the CAULDRON can bring back memories of happy days spent on Mercer's campus we will feel repaid for our work and trouble.

All we have to do now is to wait for the book and try to raise money to pay for it. The first is easy enough to do and we are still hoping that there will be enough men willing to co-operate to make the second easy.

Again, let us say that we hope you will be pleased, and if you have any constructive criticism make it to next year's staff.
