At the 1829 Georgia Baptist Convention at Milledgeville announcement was made of a bequest of $2,500 from Josiah Penfield as a fund for education. A similar amount was subscribed by the delegates. In 1831 at Buckhead, near Waynesboro in Burke County, Dr. Adiel Sherwood offered a resolution to the State Convention for the establishment of a classical and theological school, open for those only preparing for the ministry.
To those sons of Mercer who trod on this historic campus in bygone days and who have gone out to cope with the stern realities of life, to Mercer men everywhere who harbor memories of their college days, we respectfully dedicate the Alumni Edition of the 1930 Cauldron.

FOREWORD

Within these pages are portrayed steps in the growth and development of the University, the divisions also being introduced by some of Mercer's most prominent alumni. If this volume serves to inspire us on to greater achievements and in after years to recall memories which will renew love for and devotion to our Alma Mater, our efforts in trying to preserve the "atmosphere", traditions and inspiration of the campus by compiling this record of the college year will be rewarded.

At the Powelton Convention in 1832 the resolution was altered. As soon as funds justified it the Convention was to establish a literary and theological school, uniting manual labor with study and admitting others besides students preparing for the ministry. The Executive Committee was instructed by the Convention to purchase a site in Greene County.

Rev. Billington M. Sanders was engaged as principal of the school, and the village which sprang up on its site was named Penfield, in honor of Deacon Penfield, of Savannah, whose legacy of $2,500 was the immediate cause of the establishment of the institution.
Mercer

Mercer Institute, named for Jesse Mercer, the most influential and distinguished minister of the gospel of the denomination in the state and the most liberal friend of the enterprise, was formally opened January 14, 1833. Thirty-nine students were in attendance. Manual labor was a feature of the school from the beginning until 1844. In 1838 Mercer Institute was elevated to the rank and name of Mercer University.

The alumni whose sketches appear on the division pages of this volume were chosen to represent the leading fields represented in Mercer's educational system. They were chosen by the staff of the 1930 CAULDRON because of their outstanding achievements and because of their prominent leadership in their respective professions.—THE EDITOR.
Football

Football probably holds more interest for us than any other college sport, and here the photographer gives us close-ups of above and to the left—Reggie Mize! and one of the South's outstanding ends. The "M" between the halves, Quarterback Corbin getting off one of his spirals. To the left—Captain "Yank" Wright meeting the Chattanooga leader before the game on Duke and Homecoming Day. Below—an exciting moment in the freshmen-Florida game. Fullback Alderman, one of Southern football's most capable players and punters, and Wright sitting up the sideline in the Moccasin encounter.
HERE we have the ten outstanding men on the campus, chosen by a vote of the student body in a contest sponsored by the CAULDRON. The ballots were counted by the CAULDRON and the results announced by a committee appointed by the editor. Reading from left to right are, on the first row—Walton Anderson, Clayton Callaway, J. B. Courns; Jack Gregory, second row—Archie Griesdale, Betch, Hammack; third row—Lynwood Mallard, Fred Shaw, Currett Stephens, Charlie Wallace.
Here we have snaps here and there about the campus—Professor Allen, Uncle Sam bringing in the daily "sugar reports" from Beesie Tift, G. S. C. W. and elsewhere, a view of the campus from atop the law building, the fountain, the law building going up, the business manager, Plunkett and Curry, Prof. Ford and his biology "art" class, the editor and Cliff, class turns out, Lincoln with his tennis racquet.
MERCER Life! with the freshman-sophomore flag rush and then the parade by Wesleyan and up and down Cherry, leaving the laundry. Homecoming and its gala weekend of dances, soldiers of fortune trying for a ride, naughty rats being punished for misdeeds, and politics, too.

The highest honor attainable by a student of Mercer University at the hands of his fellow students is that of Master Mercerian, conferred by vote of the student body.

The attributes and qualities essential to this preferment are strong and attractive personality, scholarship, active interest in athletics, high character, sympathy with student activities, the elements of leadership, patriotism, manliness and righteous ambition.

PRESIDENT
EDUCATION means not only adapting oneself to the environment, but also widening the horizons of the environment, so that increasingly more of the world in which we live may have a meaning for us. Without such a widening of mental horizons, education becomes a knack or trade and the individual merely a bundle of specialized habits. It is this process of expansion of intellectual interests which it is the peculiar function of the College of Liberal Arts to inaugurate.

Modern civilization has in no small degree been made possible by college-trained men and women. Every present-day tendency seems to enhance the value of such training. The Liberal Arts College has played, and will continue to play, a most vital role in providing that fundamental training necessary not only for professional specialization, but just as truly for the scholarship and culture requisite to function most fully in all spheres of life.

For those possessed of unusual mental ability, the Graduate School affords an opportunity for continued training in the fundamentals as well as for specialization in the fields of one's own particular interest.
THE school year 1929-30 marks the 52nd anniversary of the Mercer Law School. During this period the School has contributed some one thousand alumni to the Bench and Bar and to the public life of the State. A surprisingly high number of these have attained positions of prominence in the State and Nation. It seems peculiarly appropriate that this year should witness the completion at Mercer of one of the finest and most adequate law buildings in the South. Since its organization the School has enjoyed a wide reputation for its high type of work and for the unusually gifted men who have contributed to its success by their service.

The Mercer School of Law was one of the first southern schools to adopt the case method of instruction, which is now generally recognized as superior to the text method. It has what is probably the most complete working library in the State of Georgia. This library, to which an annual addition of some 500 volumes is made, consists of approximately 11,000 volumes.

The Mercer Law School has long since met all of the requirements of the standardizing agencies as to faculty, curriculum, library and quarters, and as a consequence it is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, is on the approved list of law schools inspected by the American Bar Association, and its degree is registered with full acceptance by the New York Board of Regents. These three bodies constitute the final standardizing agencies for law schools in America. Truly it would seem that opportunities for legal study, unsurpassed elsewhere in the South, are offered to the student in the Mercer University School of Law.
THE School of Commerce was organized in 1919 and gave its first graduate to the world in 1920. The School has grown in popularity consistently and now ranks in point of enrollment as the leading professional school on the campus. It has for its general purpose the offering of instruction intended to train the young man and woman to better meet present-day problems in business and in social life. The special purpose of the School of Commerce is to equip the student with a knowledge of the fundamental principles underlying the various branches of modern industry, commerce and finance, and to develop in him those skills necessary for his proper functioning in these various business activities.

The School assumes that each student enrolled has a serious purpose, and on this assumption the curriculum is molded with the idea that each student views business as a profession and is endeavoring to qualify in at least one field of specialization. Emphasis is placed on a program which recognizes that success in business is not instantaneous, but comes as a reward of merit which must be demonstrated. While the School holds to the lofty ideal that it must train for leadership, it recognizes a dual task in accomplishing this objective. The curriculum has been planned with this in mind and recognizes the technical or professional side of the business man's life and at the same time views business in the larger sense in which its motives, aspirations and social obligations are as broad as life itself.
MORE college graduates enter teaching than any other one profession. The purpose of the School of Education is to help the prospective teacher achieve a truly professional point of view, to guide him in the organization of his whole college course in such a way as to make the most effective preparation for a definite teaching field, and to equip him as far as possible with the professional knowledge and technique necessary for the most efficient service.

Through the summer quarter the School of Education seeks to give teachers in service the fullest possible opportunity for further academic and professional training. Many who would otherwise be denied the opportunity are enabled to secure advanced degrees. Through its courses for administrators and supervisors, the Summer School is vitally touching the school system of the State.

Mercer University is proud of her alumni who are engaged in various types of educational work. College executives, notable professors, state school officials, and others high in the educational councils of the state proudly name Mercer as their alma mater.

Mercer is doing no greater service for state and nation than in training forward-looking young men for teaching and other forms of educational work, for the educator today is more than a mere dispenser of information—he is a civilization builder.
THE School of Christianity and Mercer University itself grew out of the struggle for an educated ministry which began among Georgia Baptists over a century ago. By 1845 the University had an excellent theological school with growing endowment. But the fight for an educated ministry was far from won. Its entrance requirements too high for the times resulted in small attendance, the seminary was opened at Greenville, S. C., and in 1859 this school was discontinued.

Problems following the Civil War emphasized the need for Mercer University again to give theological education. After all war losses, a considerable endowment dedicated to this purpose remained. In 1883 the theological work was restored and a succession of able scholars gave instruction in the Bible and theology. A later gift brought the endowment for Biblical and theological education up to $75,000.

In 1919 with the increase in funds and students, the work was reorganized as the School of Christianity. A rapid and useful expansion followed, adding among other things an attractive building and a large theological library. The School emphasizes the value of a college education for the minister, and preachers and religious leaders study along with men preparing for many other lines of work. Its courses of study receive credit for the bachelor's and master's degrees and for advanced degrees in other institutions.

John G. Harrison, A.B., Th.M., D.D.
Dean
School of Christianity
ONE of the knottiest problems in college administration today is the fearful mortality rate among students—that is, the failure of very large numbers of students to pursue a college course to graduation. Statistics show that more than half of all entrants, for one reason or another, never finish the work required for a diploma. In a further effort to solve that problem the Deanship of Freshmen was instituted at Mercer three years ago.

The controlling motive underlying all the efforts of the dean of freshmen is, then, the desire to save as many students as possible to a complete and effective college training. College life, with its curricula and libraries and instructors and student activities, is a sower who scatters his seeds of many varieties in various soils—rocky, thorny, hard or well prepared. The peculiar work of the dean of freshmen is to find ways and means of removing rocks and thorns, to find implements and agents for plowing up the arid soil. He seeks to learn the one reason or another that causes hundreds of first year men to drop out of college before graduation, and, so far as he is able, with the help of the individual student and the administrative forces of the university, he removes the peculiar handicap.

All the profits of this new enterprise will not submit to exact calculation; but certain gains have been registered, and many others of the incalculable kind are known to exist. The existence of the office is justified if one student is saved each year.

As the years roll by;
Forward ever be our watchword,
Conquer and prevail,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Mercer, hail, all hail.

What College Teaches a Man

"To be at home in all lands and ages; to count nature a familiar acquaintance and art an intimate friend; to gain a standard for the appreciation of other men's work and the criticism of your own; to carry the keys of the world's library in your pocket, and feel its resources behind you in whatever task you undertake; to make hosts of friends among the men of your own age who are to be leaders in all walks of life; to lose yourself in generous enthusiasms and co-operate with others for common ends; to learn manners from students who are gentlemen and form character under professors who are Christians —this is the offer of the college for the best four years of your life."

—William DeWitt Hyde.
Rev. Sanders presided over the institution with great ability and made it the success that it was. He delivered his valedictory December 12, 1839, when he retired from active official service. The University entered upon its career with a liberal endowment for the times. Rev. Jesse Mercer was, by far, the largest contributor, for, during his life and by will, he donated to the institution about $40,000. Subscriptions came from seventy counties, and a few from adjacent states, all amounting, in 1840, to $120,000.

The Civil War affected the interests of the University in more ways than one. During the spring of 1861 and 1862, the senior classes of those years joined the army almost in a body, and throughout the continuance of the war a skeleton, merely, of college organization was preserved. Because general confusion and derangement in the social, political and kindred affairs prevailed, the services of the institution were suspended in May, 1865. The two senior members of the faculty carried on mixed studies in the college buildings until the end of the year.

Possibly no other man came to Mercer at a time as critical from an athletic point of view as did Lake Russell, who took charge of Mercer's athletics in the summer of 1929. Russell has been at the helm only a short time, but already he has made great strides toward placing Mercer higher in the esteem of Southern colleges boasting strong athletic teams. Given time, he will accomplish more than was expected of him. Russell is a tireless worker, and therein lies one of the secrets of his success at Carson-Newman before he came to the University and his ultimate success here. What others may term his good luck is a result of hard work, and no task is too hard for Coach Russell to tackle. Mercer's head mentor is a husky, strong fellow, worthy of claiming respect from his associates on the Mercer faculty and the members of the student body. He is the kind of man one naturally respects, because there is something behind that smiling, honest face. Russell is a good coach, and he is a man.

COACH HAROLD MCNABB

It's hard to believe that Harold McNabb is a member of the coaching staff and not a freshman at Mercer. Coach McNabb came here as line coach and Coach Russell's assistant, and it did not take him long to make as many friends as any man could want. Coach McNabb is friendly with Mercer students, but when he gets on a football field with his line candidates he turns into mentor demanding that every candidate do his utmost to get in shape and prepare himself for the coming football season. McNabb is not the kind to tell others how to do things—he shows them. Coach McNabb is young, but he knows his business and has made a good impression on Mercer supporters and students. He is expected to help Coach Russell still more this fall. He has complete charge of the varsity baseball team and has placed a strong outfit in the running.

MAJOR J. D. BLAIR

J. D. Blair is one of the busiest men in Macon. Before he was relieved of his duties with the Macon Baseball Association he had the presidency of that corporation to attend to besides his duties as a member of the Mercer history faculty and coaching staff. Major is noted for accomplishing what he sets out to do. Last fall Major Blair was entrusted with training the Mercer freshmen football team—and such a football team he turned out! The 1929 Mercer Cubs marched right on through all opposition during the season and ended the year with no defeats, scoring 101 points to 15 for their opponents. Major Blair is a man who is well known in athletic circles, both professional and amateur. He demands the respect of all with whom he comes in contact, and is liked as an instructor as well as being a popular coach on the football field and the baseball diamond.
MERCER SPIRIT!

MERCER SPIRIT!—that indefinable something which somehow inspires our teams to greater achievements and knits our student body together into that firm brotherhood to which every college aspires. Some have said that Mercer spirit was a thing of the past, probably basing their opinion upon the fact that no longer does the old-time mass meeting attract such numbers of the student body: but the same old spirit is there and ever working to give Mercer the best there is. It may appear slightly changed on the surface and may be expressed in varying ways, but at the root is that same love and devotion for Alma Mater which urges us on to greater heights.

It is true that there has been a change in the student attitude in regard to athletics in the past few years. Students now care not so much about the winning of a game, but more about how well the team plays and how they play. This indicates that our athletics are upon a higher plane and that the efforts of the athletic authorities to instill a spirit of honor into athletics have at least been partially successful.

Mercer spirit seized the student body during the year somewhat more noticeably than in former years and the teams have been backed to the limit. Built upon nearly a hundred years of tradition, this spirit carried our freshman team to the Southern football championship and our cage squad to the S. I. A. A tournament at Jackson, Miss., and promises to carry our Orange and Black warriors of the baseball diamond to a successful season. With this spirit the student body of Mercer is constantly being molded into that indescribable ideal—a Mercer man.

REVIEW OF VARSITY FOOTBALL SEASON

By JIMMIE O'NEAL

FROM the standpoint of games won and lost the 1929 football season was not the most successful Mercer has experienced in its gridiron exploits. And yet there was something about that bunch of Orange and Black warriors, as they went down in defeat time after time only to rise again in the next engagement, fight all the harder and come out "bloody but unbowed," that made their supporters and opponents admire them as few teams are admired. It was an interesting and colorful team, although the "lost" column overbalances the figures in the "win" column.

The Bears inaugurated the season by putting up a heroic fight against the heralded Duke "Millionaires." The line showed great promise in defensive strength and it was only by the powerful passing arm of Buse, Duke's contribution to all Southern, that the Blue Devils were able to take the game by the unimpressive score of 20 to 6. Before the encounter Duke was believed some half dozen touchdowns better than our gridmen.

Presbyterian Makes History

Coach Russell and his men next met Presbyterian College in Clinton, South Carolina, losing their first decision in history to the Blue Stockings. Mercer kept the ball in P. C.'s territory throughout the major part of the game, but lacked the strength to put it over. The opponents' score came as a result of a long run from deep in their own soil. Then came the only ignominious defeat of the season. Some of the team said it was the result of overtraining. This may not be so, but evidently something was wrong for the Bears were trounced by the Birmingham-Southern Panthers by a 39 to 7 score, after holding them almost even during the first half.

In the next three games which were played on the home field the Bruins reached the apex of the season. The Alabama Baptists from Howard College came to Macon confident of repeating their activities of the last two or three years, but as the setting sun began to cast the shadows of Centennial Stadium across the green, carpet-like gridiron a different story was being told. The Bulldogs scored a safety early in the game, but a timely Bear pass in the closing minutes resulted in a touchdown and a 7 to 2 verdict for the Orange and the Black. Later on in the season Howard beat Birmingham-Southern.

Close Battle with Champions

On the next Saturday the Moccasins of Chattanooga, S. I. A. A. champions, were held to a lone touchdown in one of the best games of the campaign. This was better than any association team did with "Lookouts" during the entire season. The following week-end witnessed a brilliant offensive which carried the Bears to their greatest heights in steamrolling over the Tars of Rollins College from the "Land of Sunshine." Although the score was 59 to 0, the Bears do not claim too much glory, because of the weakened condition of the Florida outfit due to injuries.

In the last three games of the season Mercer lost decisions to three annual rivals. Coach Russell's proteges journeyed over to Charleston and lost to The Citadel for the first time in three years. The Cadets had one of the best teams in their history, downing the Bears by 21 to 0. A powerful Oglethorpe eleven next appeared on the schedule. The game was played on Hermance field, the new Petrel stronghold. A soggy gridiron slowed up the Mercer attack but it did not seem to affect Cy Bell and company, and one of Mercer's most ancient rivals marched to a 26 to 0 victory.

Wake Forest Deacons Win

In the final game of the season Wake Forest met Mercer in Asheville, N. C. The Bears returned from the "Land of the Sky" with a loss by a margin of two touchdowns, this also being the first game the North Carolina Baptists had won over the Georgia Baptists in the past three years. Mercer won a moral victory when Southern College canceled the game which was to be played in Lakeland, Florida, on December 7.

In spite of its unsuccessful season the Mercer squad won the admiration of students and fans alike because of its sportsmanship and that never-say-die spirit. Only in two of their games were the Bears badly beaten and those were with Birmingham-Southern and Oglethorpe, the former one of the strongest teams in the S. I. A. A. and the latter state champions, having won over the Georgia Bulldogs who later defeated Georgia Tech. Mercer's stand against the powerful University of Chattanooga Moccasins was one of the most thrilling in football history.

The "Noogans," champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Association, were expected to take Mercer by an overwhelming score. But it was Dads' and Home-NIGHTINGALE coming Day, and with fathers and alumni looking Tackle on the Bears braced their cleats firmly against RAY their goal posts and fought off every thrust Tackle of the Moccasins except one. Mercer came WRIGHT, Captain closer to knocking them off the S. I. A. Halfback A. throne than any other foe the lads from Lookout Mountain met during the entire season. At the first of the game the Bears seemed destined for a sound licking, but they turned on the enemy and fought them off their feet until the last quarter when Mercer weakened and lost by seven points.

A Fighting Orange and Black Eleven

Mercer was rated decidedly the underdog in the Chattanooga, Howard, Presbyterian and Duke encounters. The Moccasins, Bulldogs and Blue Devils had records which favored them by several touchdowns better than the Bears, but Howard was defeated by one touchdown, Duke won by two and Chattanooga by one. The only inglorious defeat was at the hands of the Birmingham-Southern Panthers. This was partly balanced, however, by the 59 to 0 victory over Rollins in the final home game of the season. The Citadel, Ogletorpe and Wake Forest elevens ran true to dope and triumphed over our team in successive conflicts.

When the tumult had died and the 1929 campaign had been chronicled and recorded, no true Mercer supporter was disposed to wear sackcloth and ashes. On the contrary they were proud of the Bears. The fans recognized the fact that the team did its best under the circumstances. When Bernice Moore retired at the end of the 1928 season Coach Lake Russell took over the responsibility to satisfy Mercer students, alumni and fans, and there are few growlers or soreheads over the record. He brought with him an entirely new system of play which cannot be perfected in one month. He acquitted himself nobly considering the amount of material at his disposal and the tough schedule.

Offensively speaking the Bears did not hit on all six during the season, with the possible exceptions of the Rollins fray. In every engagement they played wonderful defensive ball and not over a couple of touchdowns were scored as a direct re-result of a drive down the field through the stubborn line of the Bruins. It just wasn't being done last season. Practically every score came as a result of completed passes. That Bear line was almost impregnable and thought by many to be the staunchest forward wall in several years.

Mercer’s Future Encouraging

Even the sternest pessimist feels like jumping into the air, cracking his heels together three times before he comes to earth again and shouting "praise Allah" until he is hoarse when he takes time to contemplate the future of Mercer football. For instance one can visualize what a new season will mean for such backs as Corbin, Matt, Lamson, Hollingsworth, reinforced by such flashy performers as Walden, Cimperman, Poe and Harvey. Picture such old men as Branch, Plunkett, Lane and Waller working shoulder to shoulder with Sperry, Smith, McNabb, Atchley, Lobetti and Rickerson. These two Bobs—Smith and Sperry—should contribute their share toward the wrecking of more than one opposing line for the next three seasons. Fans are awaiting eagerly also the touchdown exploits of one Mr. Pinky Walden. If this "Phoney Smith" doesn't leave a path of destruction on the gridiron we will be disappointed.

It is more than an idle rumor that Mercer will be a formidable contender for the association championship next year. We are expecting great things of our Orange and Black gridmen within the next two seasons and are anticipating spirited bonfires back of "Poker Flats" and expecting to hear the echoes and re-echoes of "Hallelujah" and "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" ringing throughout Centennial Stadium and waiting to see Mercer's Colors unfurled and waving over Centennial field and looking for the brilliant glow of the electric "M" atop the chapel building. The sons of Mercer should be of good cheer and be contented to sit by and await the killing of the fatted calf. A new day is dawning and by the spirit of Achilles we'll put the old Orange and Black on the peak where it belongs.

An Interesting Snap Taken During Plenty of Action.
URING the week of September 2, 1929, a squad of young men, supposedly prospective players of the great college game of football, reported to Major J. D. Blair and began gridiron practice on Alumni Field as the Mercer Freshmen. Within that group were mountain­eers from Tennessee, “Yankees” from Ohio, Michigan and Illinois, sunburned lads from Florida and a few who hailed from our own Empire State of the South. Those same boys, representing six states, had reached, on December 2, 1929, the heights of supremacy in football—they had been molded together into one great football fraternity and had conquered five foes (all they were allowed to schedule) decisively, and were at that time claimants of the Southern Freshman football championship, a title which no team came forward to dispute.

What constituted the success of the Freshmen on the gridiron during the momentous season? First of all, loyalty to Mercer; second, friendship among the players; third, excellent ability of the players: fourth, good coaching; and last, a winning spirit.

When that squad of thirty players faced Coach Blair, he had a task before him, and he... proved that he was capable of handling it. The Major had probably seen two or three of the players in a football game before they reported to him, and it was his job to find out what kind of material he had for a team, to assemble that material into the best combination for a team and to develop the team into a winning eleven.

Major Blair worked his players morning and afternoon until school opened for the fall term. Then the regular afternoon practice was begun. During those early days of the season the Major analyzed the play of every man, found his weakness and strove to correct it. The outcome of the Cub schedule shows how successful he was.

During the season the Baby Bears defeated five formidable elevens. They first encountered Norman Junior College, coached by Buck Loser, former Mercer quarterback. The Freshmen won by a 20 to 0 verdict. Two weeks later the Cubs defeated Gordon Junior College, a team coached by another Bear signal caller, Kid Cecil, by a 34 to 0 margin. The major test of the season and the Orange and Black's most important game came when Coach Blair took his squad to Louisville, Ga., to play the Georgia Bullpups on October 20. The Cubs had been priming for and awaiting this "battle of the century," as it had been reported that Georgia had the best freshman team in several years. It was a determined eleven that Major Blair sent on the gridiron that day, and the Cubs came through with flying colors defeating the Georgia Bullpups for the second time in history. The score was 13 to 0.

Georgia took possession of the ball early in the first quarter and advanced it to the Bear five-yard line, where the latter held for three downs. Georgia tried to pass for a score, but the attempt was blocked by a Cub tackle and the ball went flying into the air. Johnny Cimperman caught it before it hit the ground and raced 95 yards for a touchdown. Mercer's warriors fought hard every minute of the encounter. In the second quarter they gained the ball on their own 30-yard line. Then Pinky Walden, who had been watched closely, ran off-tackle behind beautiful interference for fifty yards before he was brought down on Georgia's 20-yard stripe. On the next play a triple pass—Poe to Lobetti to Walden—netted another six points, and Sperry place-kicked for the extra point, making it 13 to 0, with which score the struggle ended.

A month passed before the unscored-on Cubs met the Oglethorpe Freshmen in Atlanta on a field knee-deep in mud. In the second quarter Walden returned a Petrel punt to Oglethorpe's 20-yard line, and then the favorite triple pass—Poe to Lobetti to Walden—turned the tables for a Mercer score. Sperry place-kicked for the extra point, making it seven and nothing. Later in the same period the Cubs scored again on a pass from Poe to Lobetti, but the play was called back by the referee. Bill Poe, fullback, did some exceptional punting throughout the game to bring the Cubs out of danger and send the ball into enemy territory.

A bitterly cold day, November 30, welcomed the Florida Freshmen to Macon for Mercer's final engagement of the season. On this encounter rested the Orange and Black's chances of claiming the Southern Freshman Championship. Walden took the opening kick-off and sprinted 90 yards for a touchdown. Sperry missed the try for extra point. Rogero intercepted a Cub forward pass and a little later Melton, fullback, plunged over Mercer's line for a score.
making the first time of the season that the Bears had been scored on. Rogero missed the place-kick for extra point, making the scoreboard read: Mercer 6, Florida 6.

Passes from Poe to Lobetti and Cimperman netted the Cubs 49 yards, and Walden scooted over right tackle for 20 yards and another touchdown. Sperry missed the place-kick. Again passes from Poe to Lobetti and Cimperman placed the ball within scoring distance. Walden ran off-tackle 28 yards for his third score of the quarter, which ended with Mercer 18, Florida 6. In the second period the ‘Gators made a safety when Poe’s punt was blocked, the ball rolling over the end zone without being touched by a Florida player. The half ended, 18 to 8.

The only scoring done in the third quarter came when Sperry place-kicked a field goal for the Cubs from the 20-yard line. The last score for the Mercer team was made in the fourth quarter when Lobetti intercepted Rogero’s pass and ran 25 yards for a touchdown. Just before the game ended Florida scored another touchdown when, after a Cub pass had been intercepted, Rogero ran six yards on a reverse play for a marker. Melton, drop-kicked for the extra point, making the final score: Mercer 27, Florida 15. A check of the season’s schedule shows that in the five games played the Cubs scored a total of 101 points to 15 for their opponents.

Numerals were awarded to Pinky Walden, quarter; Johnny Cimperman, Glester Harvey, Ben Murphy, Peter Strespeck, Jimmy Whitaker, Columbus Teasley, halves; Bill Poe, fullback; Ralph Ricketson, Charlie Lobetti, Johnny Myers, Joe Marion, ends; Fate Atchley, Vinson Kinney, “Fat” McLendon, Ed Ray, tackles; Dick McNabb, Bob Sperry, “Red” Bailey, “Nub” Drinnon, Arthur Venable, guards; Bob Smith, Joe Seryak, centers; Fred Evans, manager.

BASKET-BALL
RESUME OF VARSITY BASKET-BALL SEASON
By CHARLIE WALLACE

No eye, however critical, after scanning the score book in which Mercer’s 1930 basketball season has been recorded, will find fault with this year’s edition of Coach Lake Russell’s varsity basketeers. No one will say that the Bears failed to keep high the Orange and Black of our Alma Mater, or that they lost any of the prestige which our teams have held for many years in Southern basketball circles. It will be found that the Bears had a highly successful season, having won ten out of thirteen games to become one of the two favorites to cop the S. I. A. A. tournament trophy at Jackson, Miss., only to lose in their first encounter of the meet to a strong Southwestern Louisiana quintette in an over-time battle by a 41 to 39 verdict. Three days later Southwestern had advanced to the place where there were no more foes to conquer and was wearing the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association crown.

Although they did not play a very large number of games, the Orange and Black warriors were led by Baggy Mallard, S. I. A. A. forward and Bear captain for two consecutive years, against one of the most formidable arrays of opponents that will be recorded for any team in the 1930 annals of Southern basketball. They played brilliant and unbeatable ball at times, inspired by that winning spirit which carried them to heights unattained by other teams in the season’s play, defeating some of the strongest and highest ranking Southern quintettes while the mad scramble was on. Probably it is too much to expect a team to be ‘just right’ all the time, and only on one or two occasions did they play listless ball.

The Orange and Black basketeers inaugurated the 1930 campaign by trouncing The Citadel Bulldogs, 53 to 35, on the municipal auditorium court. Mercer’s quintette kept up a fast pace throughout to open the season with a decisive win. Three days later, on January 11, the Albany “Y” Blues, an annual indoor rival, came to the Central City with fond hopes of breaking the four-year winning streak of the collegians, but Captain Mallard, with 18 points, led his mates to a 41 to 35 victory. The Bears made it two straight over the Blues in Albany the following Friday night by a 47 to 41 verdict. This game marked the varsity debut of Bill Underwood, brilliant center on Mercer’s sensational Southern freshmen champions of 1928.

Monday and Tuesday of the next week witnessed probably the best series of the entire season, together with the best cage team to invade the bear stronghold in Coach Griff Lee's Mississippi College quintette. The Bears were unable to cope with the superior height of Branch, Hermann and Bennett, three sharpshooters who towered six feet and more, and the Mississippian emerged victorious from the first encounter by a 48 to 35 score. It was a different story when Bear and Choctaw met the following night. It was the kind of game that increases the sale of aspirin with the ladies and Canada Dry with the men. First one team and then the other snatched the lead throughout the hectic battle. With eight seconds of play left and the Choctaws leading, 33-31, Peggy Campbell sank one from the side of the court to tie the score. The Bears were fighting for victory like they never fought before, and at the end of the extra period, they had evened the series by winning, 41 to 35, Campbell getting 18 points.

Birmingham-Southern, a team which had downed Mississippi by 13 points, was here the next week for two games. Mercer played mediocre ball to drop the first, 44 to 37, but came back strong to cop the second one, 51-38. The Bears made it two in a row over Oglethorpe, in Atlanta by 53 to 47 and on the local court the following week by 57 to 32. Chattanooga, with one of the best records of any Southern team, arrived on February 11. The Bears were sensational that Tuesday night, flashing the most brilliant passing attack of the season to smother the Moccasins by an overwhelming count, 73 to 22. Joe Matt, with 17 points, led in the scoring melee. The Bears were right for the Chattanooga series, for on it depended their entering the tournament at Jackson, Miss. On the next afternoon they downed the lads from Lookout Mountain, 38 to 30, and made it three straight over the Moccasins by nipping Wednesday night's engagement, 47-22. One week later the Orange and Black met Georgia in Athens. The Bears led at the half, 24-21, but became disorganized, the Bulldogs winning, 41-27. The following week Mercer left for the S. I. A. meet, drew a bye the first day and was dealt her fourth loss of the season by Southwestern Louisiana, new champs, the next. Captain Mallard led the Bear cagers in scoring with 165 points for the season, followed by Campbell with 145, Matt 111, Underwood 78, Wright 55, Wilkes 44, Mobley 21, DeVaugh 8, Marshall 8 and Warlick 4, for a team total of 639 points to 511 scored by opponents.

As only two men, Mallard and Wright, will be lost by graduation, the Bears should have another winning combination next season.

Those who were awarded letters are Mallard, Campbell, Underwood, Matt, Wright, Wilkes, Mobley and Marshall.
Freshman Basket-Ball

Mercer's 1930 Freshman basket-ball team had a fairly successful season, winning six contests and losing five. Coach Harold McNabb had difficulty in arranging a schedule for the Cubs, and it was probably for that reason that the Frosh did not have a better campaign.

Twenty-five boys reported for practice during the second week in January, and it was expected, judging from the number of candidates out at the Municipal auditorium, that the Freshmen would have a club which would be hard to beat. But the squad gradually narrowed down to twelve players and most of them were of the mediocre type—so the Mercer Cubs had a mediocre basket-ball team.

Eight boys were awarded numerals at the end of the season by Coach McNabb. These were Green, Dawson, Kinney and Moseley, forwards; Tharpe and Gunnels, centers; Smith and Ray, guards.

During the season the Cubs scored a total of 332 points to 319 for the opposition, showing that, after all, they weren't so bad.

Dick McNabb Batting 'Em Out in Practice Session
In December, 1865, the trustees began the rehabilitation of the University and the reorganization of the faculty. The war affected the college in another and unexpected manner—in regard to its location, and the result was its removal from Penfield to Macon, where the University was again formally opened in October, 1871.

PUBLICATIONS
THE 1930 CAULDRON

An Explanation of the Theme and Purpose of the Cauldon.

The theme of the 1930 CAULDRON is a primary reason for the title chosen. Each of the six divisions of the book is introduced by a pencil drawing of a prominent Mercer alumnus, an outstanding leader in his respective profession. The men named for this feature were selected from the leading fields represented in Mercer's educational system—viz., law, education, journalism, the ministry, commerce and medicine—and were not definitely chosen until after extensive interviewing and research work and careful and serious consideration on the part of the staff. They were elected on recommendation of those most familiar with Mercer's history and who know the part they are playing in their lines of endeavor. They have been selected because of their achievements and because they are considered among Mercer's most representative contemporary leaders.

Senator Walter F. George has been chosen to represent the Law School; Dr. W. H. Kilpatrick, professor of the Philosophy of Education, Teachers College, Columbia University, Education and the College of Liberal Arts; Hon. Thos. J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, Journalism; Eugene W. Stetson, Vice-President of the Guaranty Trust Company, New York City, Commerce; Dr. Solon B. Cousins, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Richmond, Va., the Ministry; Dr. James E. Paulin, prominent Atlanta, Ga., specialist, Medicine. The first four men named are included in Who's Who in America.

In the co-theme of the present book, which illustrates salient episodes in the history of the University, we have essayed to depict the epoch-making events in the growth and de-Together with a Description of the Make-up of the Present Book.

Development of our Alma Mater through the years. This feature of the CAULDRON dates from the adoption, in 1831 at old Buckhead Church near Waynesboro in Burke County, of a resolution by Dr. Adiel Sherwood which led to the founding of Mercer Institute in 1833 at Penfield, later raised by the trustees of the institution to the status of a university in 1838.

These historical sketches which appear on the opening and division pages of the book carry us from the inception, growth and development of the University to the first graduating class of three in 1841, through the confusion of the Civil War period and the removal of the institution from Penfield to Macon in 1871 to more recent developments. As far as we know this is the first time that such a two-fold theme has been featured in any yearbook.

The 1930 CAULDRON is not dedicated to an individual, but to the hosts of Mercer's sons, to those who trod before us on this old campus and whose places we now take in these historic halls. The theme and dedication features of this year's book were selected solely by the editors themselves, who spent the three summer months preceding the opening of the regular school year planning the various sections and the many details of annual making. The motivating idea in dedicating the 1930 CAULDRON to Mercer men is the endeavor to help bring about a more unified and active alumni organization, to arouse a more sincere and heart-felt interest on the part of the alumni in the institution, to awaken them to the ever increasing merits and prominent importance of Mercer's mission to the youth of America and to cause them to renew their love and devotion to their Alma Mater.

Our purpose in attempting this special edition of the CAULDRON can be explained thus: to do our utmost to preserve the memory of Mercer's interesting history by recording the salient episodes in its development in permanent form and to keep before us that we might aspire to those brilliant heights of success attained by them, some of our Alma Mater's most prominent and influential sons: to strive to co-operate with those who are working for the realization of a GREATER MERCER by leaving this volume, whatever its merits may be, as our contribution toward that ideal.

The size of the annual, the typographical features, the lay-out of the different sections—all these have been changed wherever a change has seemed to promise a more original, more attractive yearbook. We have attempted to retain a uniform page balance throughout the volume. The activities pertaining to each phase of campus organization have been grouped in a single section, doing so with the motivating idea of permitting a person not at all familiar with activities at the University to find with ease any particular organization. Thus, in the ACTIVITIES section of the book are included the subdivisions pertaining to Publications. The CAULDRON, etc., Footlights, Glee Club, etc., Literary and Forensic and Administrative, the latter including the Presidents’ Club and Student Tribunal. In the ORGANIZATIONS division are placed the Social Fraternities, Honorary and Professions, Religious and Clubs sections. Brief notes explaining the nature of the organization or activity have also been furnished in some cases with the general aim of increased usefulness to all readers. It will be observed that the present book is featuring a novel and original idea in the index run at the bottom of the page and indexing the entire book as to the nature of the activities for the purpose of making easier access to the information which an annual contains.

The girls appearing in the BEAUTY section were selected from a large number of photographs submitted by the university students, who turned in pictures of their sisters and girl friends, or maybe somebody else’s, to be recorded in the halls of the fair. The contest which brought forth such treasured possessions from the familiar places where such things are harbored and which ended in a galaxy of approximately fifty beaming, innocent faces was sponsored by the CAULDRON staff, and as far as we know was the first of its kind ever held on the campus. Whether the six dams who grace Vanity Fair’s division are looked upon as a favorable criterion of pulchritude can be blamed on Mr. Wendell Jackson, of the art department of Southwestern Engraving Company.

We follow this year the practice of leading annuals at present in abolishing the formal write-up for each senior. The classes are in alphabetical order, and the law school students have been separated, the three classes coming at their proper places at the close of the regular class sections. Instead of adding the degree for which a student is an applicant to his name, we have given the school or the department of the University in which he is enrolled, using degrees only for those who have already obtained them, these being in the Post Graduate section. We have included an alphabetical roll of the 1929 Summer School with each student’s home address. The purpose of this was to have the most complete book possible, making a record not only of the regular nine months of school, but of the entire year, dating from June, 1929.

The fraternity rolls are also given alphabetically together with the class and home address. The chapter houses, the fraternity crest and the fraternity badge are included this year along with the usual panel of members, who are grouped according to classes.

Three major innovations have to do with the ATHLETICS division, always one of the most important sections of an annual. The present book departs from the practice of preceding CAULDRONs in abolishing the write-up which in former years has been carried with each football and basketball player, using instead a complete review and summary of the respective sports. Another new feature is the inclusion of only letter men in the varsity football section, the pictures being made at the end of the season after the gridmen had received their ‘M’ sweaters, varying the make up from the conventional action pictures. Four pages are devoted to the freshman football season in an effort to pay deserving tribute to the sensational team which decisively triumphed over a formidable array of opponents to end their schedule with one of the best records in the South and to claim the southern freshman championship, a title which no team came forward to dispute. The other innovation has to do with baseball. Heretofore each CAULDRON has run the preceding year’s squad, but we arranged our schedule in such a way that we were also able to include the 1930 team, making a complete account of the ’29-’30 sport activities.

The snapshot section, one of the most interesting and closely observed parts of a yearbook in that it portrays the everyday life of the campus as it really is, features unusual and unique student activities and in later years serves to recall memories of our college days, has been placed in the front of the book under the opening division of MERCER, which includes those features connected with the University and its life and functions, viz., the snapshot section, campus views and the Administration. The deans of the different schools have furnished messages sketching the histories of their schools and the objects of the courses they offer.

It will be observed that the present CAULDRON includes more and a greater variety of group pictures than usual. We have used these in a number of cases wherever to use them seemed practical and seemed to correspond with the nature of the activity or organization, and because group pictures, in addition to breaking away from the page after page of individual pictures, add greatly to the increased interest and improved looks of a book.

The 1930 staff, in putting out this special Alumni Edition, has endeavored to accomplish something worth while by sponsoring a constructive program, one which we hope will presage the realization of a GREATER MERCER and serve to bring the alumni in closer contact with the University and its activities. If what we have done will in any way help to achieve this aim, and if this volume in after years will recall memories which will renew love for and devotion to our Alma Mater, our efforts in trying to preserve the “atmosphere,” traditions and inspiration of the campus by compiling this record of the college year ’29-’30 will be well rewarded.

The Law School was organized in 1873, with three professors and sixteen students. The reader now has an idea of the inception, the growth and development of Mercer University. It grew from a desire for an educated ministry, but this intention enlarged into the broader purpose of the higher education of Baptist sons. Plans now are being made for a jubilee celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the institution in 1933.

RELIGIOUS
The Baptist Student Union is the connecting link between the Campus and the Church. Its purpose is:

First—To strengthen, correlate and unify all of the separate Baptist unit religious organizations (Sunday School Classes, Ministerial Association, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. A., B. Y. P. U., etc.) into one campus organization with one all-inclusive program of religious activity.

Second—To advocate and advance in every wise way the several objects of the various Baptist unit organizations:

Third—To enlist in and through the separate unit organizations, every student of the institution in that religious activity or activities which he needs for his highest Christian development and spiritual growth.

The purpose of the Y. M. C. A. on Mercer's campus is to create, maintain and extend throughout the college high standards of Christian living. Vesper services three nights each week afford all students the opportunity for spiritual growth and wholesome fellowship through worship and self-expression. These services have continued almost without interruption for nearly ninety-five years.

Why Go To College?

PRESIDENT J. J. TIGERT

University of Florida

HERE are approximately one million men and women in the colleges and universities of the United States, a number equal to those in the colleges and universities of the rest of the world, outside of the United States.

The time has come when we should be very careful in determining who should go to college. Young men and women should seek expert guidance to determine whether they may expect to benefit by higher education and into what lines of training they may expect to go and derive the greatest benefits.

It has been well established that college and university training usually increases the capacity to earn money. Wherever studies have been made there is a high correlation between education and ability to earn. More important are the spiritual and intellectual values of college training. College may provide knowledge for successful pursuit of a profession or vocation, thus making a man or woman economically independent. At the same time colleges and universities provide abundant opportunity for enjoying a complete life of intellectual, literary, aesthetic and scientific satisfaction.

In addition to these an institution of learning should instill the spirit of service and inspire ideals and ambitions of unselfishness. There has never been a time when there was a greater need for leadership dedicated to the solution of social and civic problems. The church and allied agencies are greatly in need today of trained, aggressive leaders.—The Baptist Student, February, 1930.

AN INTIMATE GLIMPSE OF MERCER LIFE

About the Days when Learning was a Pleasure and the Social Life of the College was on the Campus

EDITOR'S NOTE: For twenty-six years Miss Sallie, one of the most interesting and beloved personalities on our campus, has been Mercer's librarian, and probably no one is better qualified than she to carry us for a glimpse into yesterday's college life at Mercer. We know that Mercer men still remember her cheerful "hello-o" and will recall the "good ole days" when Miss Sallie said learning was a pleasure. If these reminiscences serve to draw the "old grads" closer to their college and cause them to renew their love for and devotion to their Alma Mater and catch again that old Mercer Spirit, our efforts will not have been in vain.

If you would look back upon a charming bit of Mercer history, turn with me for a glimpse into the records of social life at Mercer during the 'teen age of this twentieth century to just before the great war when all the activities of this dear old college were literally on the campus. In years the time does not seem so far away—the 1913-14-15, etc. boys would not think so—but in spirit and in manners and customs, it is as if a breath from a far-off country had brought something strange and sweet and unbelievably odd.

Those were the years when each of the classes—Senior, Junior, Sophomore and Freshman—must have a party, when all the organizations, clubs, fraternities and literary societies would have their gala nights, when the athletic teams after rounding out the season's play would celebrate with the most approved jollification, and by the time the school year was over, every boy had been interested in some social function and most of the boys several times over. The sights and sounds of revelry were beautiful to see and hear and almost brought one to the belief that entertaining by the boys was a definite part of their education.

Upstairs in the library was the regular place for the parties—the entire upper floor being converted into a regular reception hall and all forms of decoration brought into play. Originality was at a premium, and the intensive study given to new and striking effects in making bare walls and halls bloom like the rose of Sharon was an example of what close application a boy can give to something he likes. It was such a joy to fix up, and the girls were always so thrilled to come to the parties out at the college.

The Senior class started the festivities with the Hallowe'en party on that last night in October with weird, uncanny effects never before seen. For days the preparations were under way, and always keep in mind that the boys themselves did all the work, even to helping prepare the refreshments. Mrs. Sellers had charge of the dining room then, over in Sherwood, and we would give to some of the boys the jobs of making the mayonnaise, cutting up the chicken and celery for the salad, and squeezing lemons and be it said to their credit, they did well!

The Juniors and Sophomores had their events somewhat close together, as one had the Valentine party and the other had the George Washington affair. You can imagine the "hearts and flowers" of those valentines, the pink and white of those fluffy ruffles of the twenty-second of February, and how much romance could be condensed into one all-too-short beautiful evening.

Then near commencement time came the Freshman party. Yes, the Freshmen really did have a party of their own, even though it was held in spite of the world, the flesh and the upperclassmen. Of course the wires were cut at the last minute, and all lights would be off. Then we would get candles and lamps and have a better time than ever.
Sometimes the ice cream would be stolen, but we would order another supply, and then would place a strong guard around the cakes and punch. And what a good time those dear boys and girls would have up there in the library while the upperclassmen were down on the campus trying to guy them and break up the party.

At that time there were six fraternities at Mercer, and their halls were in the Administrabition building—Sigma Nu on the first floor where Professor Jacob's office is now. Phi Delta Theta, S. A. E., Kappa Sigma and
A. T. O. on the fourth floor, and Kappa Alpha on the tower floor. The boys took great pride in fixing up their halls and they were beautifully furnished. Each fraternity would entertain with a party in its hall once a year, and then all would join in and give a Pan-Hellenic reception that was held in the Administration building. This meant that all the fraternities kept open house, and all took part in the general decorative scheme.
And oh! the preparation for this big event.
Such decorating, such transforming of the big barren halls of the old Administration building into beautiful stretches with vines, flowers and soft lights of many colors. And the boys did all the work. Can you imagine it?

I can see them now working as they had never worked at anything at home or abroad, dragging up those stairs great piles of vines they had cut in the woods, stringing electric lights and hauling in rugs and vases, and everything that kind friends would lend them to add to the beauty of the halls. Then when the long-looked-for hour arrived, the lights were turned on and the guests would come trooping in, those shrieks of surprised delight from the girls paid for all the hard labor that went into the making of such loveliness.

It must be said in passing that those same dear girls had to do a lot of puffing and blowing before they reached the heights where beauty reigned supreme. Going up those stairs was some job. The big K. A. window still beckons to those heights the Mercer boys attained and kept through so many years.

When the summer school rolled around the social activities continued with picnics and parties, just enough to make learning a pleasure!

I sometimes wonder if the old boys look back on those bygone days with a smile as they think of the simple pleasures, and then I know full well that the smile may come, but that deep in their heart there is a memory of something fine and sweet that belongs to another day and would not be lost for the world.
What's Happened During '29-'30

Resume of Campus Activities and Things More Otherwise than Wise

Compiled by Staff Writers of the Cauldron

Sept. 17.—Ninety-eight years ago, no one had ever heard of Mercer. Today, at least four hundred and seventy-four have—O.K., J. C. Shelburne.

Sept. 18.—Pity the freshmen. They are going through the super endurance test known as freshmen week.

Sept. 19.—Both freshmen enjoy chapel exercises this morning, sleeping through a discourse on how to make the most of your college days. Neither of them remembered the speaker's name.

Sept. 20.—By this time at least three freshmen know what one or more of the following terms mean: The Pharm, house of mystery, Acorn Drive.

Sept. 21.—Pinky Walden and Swede Olsen get hot and the freshmen beat Norman Park Institute by a 20-0 score. Big Bob Smith appears for the first time on the Mercer gridiron. “—another Peter Pund”—Jimmie Jones.

Sept. 22.—Freshmen required to attend church. A good thing. Some of them may never go again.

Sept. 23.—Rushing season among the fraternities begins. More freshmen will be pledged with Piccolo Pete than with any assurance of fraternity standards and virtues.

Sept. 24.—Charlie Wallace says 1930 Cauldron will be bigger and better than ever. The same old tale again.

Sept. 25.—Seven new professors for the ministerial students to bootlick are here.

Sept. 26.—Cheerleader Strippy announces mass meeting for Friday night.

Sept. 27.—Freshmen learn how to spell M.E.R.C.E.R., with Strippy and Kelly as tutors.

Nearly everybody who has ever been on a dance floor turns out for the opening college hop of the season at Lanier Hotel.

Sept. 28.—The Duke Blue Devils beat Mercer 19 to 6 today. The Bears played a brilliant brand of football in the opening varsity encounter of the season and the first under the new regime of Coach Lake Russell. Jody Matt carried the pigskin over Duke’s goal to score for Mercer. The noted tosses of Buie, one of the foremost forward passers in the country, largely accounted for a Blue Devil victory.

Sept. 30.—Blue Key Fraternity hears Dr. Dowell. “The value of your diploma ten years from now depends upon the value of the then Mercer.”

Oct. 1.—Edgar Howerton, new glee club director, says that Paul Whiteman would probably like to hear the Mercer Glee Club orchestra.

Oct. 2.—X. V. Clothes Shop gives Cheerleader Strippy a large megaphone. As if the boy doesn’t already make too much noise.

Oct. 3.—Mercer Bears leave for Clinton to play Presbyterian College.

Oct. 5.—Usual Saturday exodus of students for Bessie Tift and Wesleyan.

Oct. 7.—Shelburne says dads will visit campus October 26. Boys start cleaning up rooms.

Oct. 8.—Seniors dictate rules to freshmen. Wonder how long they will be dictated—or, we mean how long it is seen to it that they obey them.

Oct. 11.—Mrs. Montague finds Jack Gregory and Fred Shaw’s room cleaned up. She passes out.
THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

College and university men find this university-type of seminary, with its genuine Christian scholarship, a most acceptable place to complete their ministerial training. Here, among other things, are offered a world-famous faculty, a cosmopolitan student body, a comprehensive curriculum, an opportunity to face truth under safe guides, a real chance for spiritual growth, complete library, and desirable prestige, at surprisingly low cost, with numerous self-help privileges.

Oct. 12—Jim O'Neal bets on his Cluster football predictions and cleans up. (Editor's note: He bet on the teams he picked to loose.)

Oct. 14—A certain young man returns to Macon after the memorable Yale-Georgia week-end, where he saw a football game through the neck of a bottle.

Oct. 18—Mercer Cubs carry the Orange and Black to a sensational 13 to 0 verdict over Georgia Freshmen Bullpups at Louisville, Ga. A large number of the first year men accompanied the team along with several upper classmen and Macon fans.

Oct. 19—Bears triumph over Howard Bulldogs at Centennial stadium when a last-minute pass results in a 7 to 2 score.

Oct. 25—Clarence Strippy invites Mayor Toole to speak before the Mercer student body at a big bonfire rally on Gambrell hillside tonight. "Anything which will burn," Strippy urges. Four hundred freshmen would have been killed in a big rush to Wesleyan, if Mercer had four hundred freshmen.

Oct. 26—Dads and "old grads" visit campus for Homecoming day. A fighting Bear team met the University of Chattanooga Moccasins on Centennial stadium field and held last year's champions to a lone touchdown and extra point. This is the second Homecoming game that Mercer has lost.

Oct. 28—Booby Robinson gets a shoe shine today for the first time in three years.

Nov. 3—Y. W. A. fails to meet today because—(censored).

Nov. 6—Co-eds compel both first year girls to wear their dresses backwards.

Nov. 7—The CAULDRON sells an ad.

Nov. 8—Mag Long remarks that life "at the Harvard of the South is a hectic propo­sish."

Nov. 9—Thank heaven for Rollins College, speaking in terms of pigskins.

Nov. 12—Stephenson and Grinalds fake a fight in the law library. It is predicted they will be brought to trial.

Nov. 15—The student body rejoices today. There is no issue of the Cluster.

Nov. 16—Bears lose to Citadel for first time in three years, playing in Charleston. Cub have a mud battle with Oglethorpe Freshmen on Hermanence field in Atlanta, but win, 7 to 0, continuing their victorious march.

Nov. 18—The Junior Rotary Club (Blue Key Fraternity) decides to petition the administration for the abolition of compulsory chapel for members of the band. Three hundred students take up the saxophone.

Nov. 19—Bo Railey spends the day in town studying sociological conditions. (and physiological?)

Nov. 21—McConnel Church presents a crisp, new five dollar bill to Mercer. Perhaps this is what the Cluster means by the headline: "Mercer is assured rich endowment."

Nov. 23—Oglethorpe Petrels down the Bears. By this time the Birds ought to be used to playing on the meadow they have for a football field.

Nov. 25—Hugh Kelly is defeated in the race for janitor of the Phi Delta Literary Society by one vote. Moral: One should always vote for oneself.

Nov. 27—Virginia Black falls down and rocks herself to sleep before she can get up.

Nov. 29—According to the society columns of the Macon Telegraph, "Dick Robinson was charming in a brown suit of Oscar Peden's."

Nov. 30—Freshman football season comes to an end with a thrilling 27 to 15 triumph over the University of Florida Baby Gators. The frosh have scored 101 points to 15 for their opponents, defeating Georgia freshmen, Oglethorpe, Gordon Institute, Florida and Norman.

Dec. 3—The campus student revival is now in session. Numerous students are attending the services regularly, it is alleged.

Dec. 4—Twenty more days before Christmas. Do your shopping early.

Dec. 6—The Mercer Players make their initial bow of the season at Bessie Tift tonight. It is a lucky break for the Players, though Director Shelburne may have to look some of the student actors up to tell them that the show must go on.

Dec. 9—Donald Norman is named Mercer's only seven letter man: Y. M. C. A., B. S. U.

Dec. 18—Mercer students leave for Christmas holidays today after welcoming one S. Claus, a Mercer graduate and gentleman of the old school.

Dec. 25—MERRY CHRISTMAS

Jan. 1—HAPPY NEW YEAR

Jan. 3—Registration begins again. All the students are looking bad. It seems like the folks at home have almost killed the prodigals. Too much calf meat isn’t good for anyone.

Jan. 4—Rooms in Sherwood are locked today. All the students are sleeping. When they get up they’ll take a shower and the old cries of “Hot Water!” will ring out. Why can’t Mercerians be modern and sing “Turn on the Heat.”

Jan. 6—A lot of students are attending classes today. Perhaps they’ve forgotten that the siren isn’t calling them to a fire. after all.

Jan. 8—Bob Smith is elected president of the freshman class today—the first time the first-year men have elected a football player to head their class in a long time.

Bears inaugurate basket-ball season with 53 to 35 win over Citadel. Every man takes part in the scoring. Captain Mallard tops field with 13 points.

Jan. 10—The movies come to Mercer today, with Dean Wray and his assistants giving shows with such snappy captions as “The Island of Sugar” and “The Queen of the Waves.” One boy intimates that the authorities should put the queen on the island and call the picture “Honey.”

Jan. 14—A law clinic of ten student members is formed. Now let those honored try to juggle the law library’s 25,000 volumes.

Jan. 15—The CAULDRON editor takes trip to Atlanta, on business he says. Wait till we get to be editor, and we are going to have the book printed in London and the engravings made in Paris. Says we.

Jan. 17—In this week’s issue of the Cluster, the following appears:

To be a collickh journalist
Is often quite a killer—
For every now and then you have
To try and write a filler.
But now that this is done, I guess
Another page will go to press.
Please don’t accuse us of filling up space by reprinting this. There are plenty of things to write about: Joe Grant kicking the trash can in Sherwood. Dudley Wood snitching five beans as he passed through the cafeteria. Bill Davis receiving the nickname of “Little Ink.” or—if all else failed—George Niles having a date with little Lil.

Jan. 19—The Pan-Hellenic Council awards the scholarship cup to the S. A. E.’s today. In regular head-line form, this means:

DEGREE STOCK TAKES
DROP AT BAPTIST SCHOOL

Jan. 20—After taking two straight from the Albany “Y” Blues, Mercer drops her first game of season to a team of six-footers from Mississippi College, last year’s S. I. A. A. champs, by a 48 to 35 count.

Jan. 21—Furman Smith makes highest average in law school. So that is the value of taking text books to class.

Campbell leads Bears to a thrilling win over Mississippi’s Choctaws. With eight seconds to play Peggy tied the score at 33—all with one of his famous shots from the side of the court. In the five-minute play-off the Bears lost no time and chalked up a 41-35 win. Campbell tallied 18 points.

Feb. 11—A small dog answering to the name of Blotto, Tobasco, Reginal, or even Pup almost broke up a French class today. The dog belonged to Mrs. Sikes, the French class to Professor Witcher.

Feb. 12—John D. Allen is elected most popular Mercer professor, Jack Gregory most popular fraternity man, George Potts, most popular nonfrat and Martha McArthur, most popular co-ed. Yep, politics is just over the horizon.

Feb. 13—The Bears made it three in a row over Chattanooga by winning two games yesterday. This qualifies them for the tournament to be held at Jackson, Miss.

Feb. 17—Jack Dawson is still making Mercer famous by singing over W. M. A. Z.

Feb. 19—Baggy Mallard will be one of Mercer’s football coaches next fall, they tell us today. If Baggy can coach like he plays, he will be plenty good.

Feb. 20—News comes that after leading the Bulldogs 24 to 21 at the half, the Bears lost last night’s game to Georgia, 27 to 41. It would seem that a group of Athens High boys could put on Georgia uniforms and beat Mercer in anything from checkers to a pistol fight.

Feb. 24—Dr. P. H. Anderson leaves for China where he will resume his work in the mission fields.

Feb. 26—The Pi K. A.’s defeated the Kappa Sigma team in the finals of the annual Pan-Hellenic tournament today to win the silver basket-ball.

Feb. 28—Delegates to the International Relations Conference being held here and at Wesleyan are swarming the campus today. And it is raining. Oh, how it is raining!

March 1—Southern Conference of International Relations Clubs, with the local chapters of Mercer and Wesleyan serving as hosts, comes to an end. Approximately 100 delegates from twenty-five schools and colleges were in attendance.

March 2—Today is Sunday, if it doesn’t rain.

March 3—Baseball drill begins on Alumni Field under direction of Coach Harold McNabb. With a number of veterans and star frosh diamondmets reporting, things look bright for a successful season.

March 4—Announcement is made by Registrar Shelburne that final examinations will begin next Monday, March 10. Students already have been seen grouping around the University bulletin boards trying to see what their schedule is so they can calculate on how late they can sleep in the mornings. Others, to whom this does not apply, will begin meeting classes more regularly and start some notoriously high-powered bootlicking.

March 5—Lee Knowles takes office as president of the Georgia Baptist Student Union. He formerly held the office of vice-president, having been elected at the state conference last November.

March 6—Hurrah for the Glee Club Manager Charlie Wallace announces that "The South's Leading Entertainers" will appear at Bessie Tift on April 19.

March 7—Eight varsity basketeers will receive letters for this season's play, according to Coach Lake Russell. They are Baggy Mallard, Peggy Campbell and Jimmie Wilkes, forwards; Bill Underwood and Toombs Mobley, centers; Jody Matt, Yank Wright and Red Marshall, guards. A like number of Freshman warriors of the hardwood are to receive their "33's",—Dawson, Kinney, Green and Moseley, forwards; Tharpe and Gunnels, centers; Ray and Smith, guards.

March 8—"CAULDRON" shows encouraging signs of coming out this year. (Editor's notation: "I doubt it.")

March 9—A week ago today was Sunday.

March 10—Exams begin today. The war cry of the students is to be "Vini, vidi, vici," while it has been rumored that the professors have banded under the banner—"They shall not pass."

March 11—Our secretary failed to make notes on today's page in our diary and we have forgotten whether anything happened.

March 12—"... on the screen it's CHARM, in a cigarette it's TASTE."

March 13—This is the thirteenth. One more day and it would have been Friday the thirteenth.

March 14—Editor and business manager are seen in a huddle. Bet they are talking "CAULDRON" business.

March 15—Wonder how many passed their exams, by whatever mode or manner they might have employed?

March 17—It has been calculated that one could spend twenty-nine years at Mercer, taking a normal schedule of work without repeating any courses. A guy sure ought to be "educated" if he stayed here that long—and, if his old man "let" him stay that long.

March 19—Plans and preparations are being made for Little Commencement. The campus and associated interests will be scenes of activity and merry-making next week-end. Why not have a good time, we only have this one life to live, and nobody has it to live for us?

March 20—A lot of boys have graduated from Mercer—graduated to Camels.

March 21—Editor goes to Atlanta, presumably to work on the "CAULDRON."

March 24—Every alumus of the University has been invited to return to the campus for the commencement program and reunion celebrations.

March 25—Two days before the Spring Festival.

March 27—Little Commencement gets under way with many of the Southland's choicest damsels on hand for the festivities. A good time is predicted for the week-end.

March 28—Costume ball features series of dances. Characters ranging from Uncle Sam to Satan himself appear. For the sake of some it would have been better to have made it a masquerade ball.

March 29—"How do you stand on prohibition...?"

March 31—This is the last day of the month.

April 1—APRIL FOOL.

April 2—Reports have it that the University of New Mexico students have sponsored a contest for electing the "ugliest" man on the campus. Why not have such a one here?

April 3—This animal called "polyticks" has made his appearance and is going strong. Sixty-one have been nominated for forty-six campus offices to be filled for next year.

April 4—In the Cluster's poll on prohibition, in which were asked the three ques-

April 5—Politics reaches fever heat and arouses the campus to its highest pitch in several years. The Liberal Party is organized and announces for “Cleaner and better politics.” Placards appear on the campus and everything is in a state of excited interest.

April 6—A certain professor is seen today at the drug store calling for a bromo seltzer. A bad night, last night, we call it.

April 7—Special called chapel session lasts for two hours. Oh, politics, where art thou?

April 8—“Coming events cast their shadows before…”

April 12—Time out.

April 16—Elections held today. Hope everybody wins.

April 23—Everything is getting along all right, we hope.

April 29—It is reported that the annual will be out by May 15.

April 30—April will sing its swan song at midnight, with an end to the April show- ers and the inauguration of May’s flowers.

May 1—Mercer’s first May Festival is held in a spacious open air theatre on University Place: former sight of historic Penfield Hall. Martha McArthur is crowned Queen and Sam Overstreet is crowned King. Processional is interrupted with appearance of secretary of B. S. U. as neither is a member of the organization since their records reveal unusual irregularities. Frances Ellis and Lee Knowles proposed for Queen and King, but students demand better representation of attractive features which are easy on the eyes. Fam- ily Spirit prevails until developments become too complicated.

May 2—Classes dismissed for students to recuperate from excessive indulgences of May Festival. Several reported in grave condition from marathon osculations.

May 6—Chapel exercises are interrupted when Prexy Dowell drops glasses and is unable to continue without them. A gesture of the hand and the familiar “That is all today” sent the children gladly out to their usual ice cream cones at the Co-op.

May 7—Cauldron appears with all its illuminating secrets and surprises. Alumni of state besiege Editor and Manager for omitting their names and pictures as prominent Mercer men. Lee Battle saves the day for his Alma Mater.

May 8—Shelburne announces that a package was left at his office by a member of the student body with note saying that “Co-ed” may have same by identifying contents. This was left in my car between the hours of ten and eleven Tuesday.” Shelburne refrained from hinting as to possible contents, but several co-eds rushed madly from chapel.

May 9—B. S. U. attempts another Social in honor of Mothers of the University. Upon complete inspection of all buildings they unanimously decided to abolish Y. M. C. A., Daniel Marshall Dining Hall, Sherwood Hall, Cynthia Holiday, Gam- bell, Tryon and Chapel buildings. Trustees were informed to begin immediate removal of students to Bessie Tift College allowing “compassionate marriages.”

May 11—Tattnall Square’s cop discovers that three members of newly elected B. S. U. council were fast asleep in fond embraces after all-night prayer meeting in Y. M. C. A.

May 13—Usual spring jokes find chapel in hectic condition. All photographs are decorated and occupying respective places of faculty. B. S. U. Ford is suspended from radio tower.

May 15—Freshman class holds meeting to elect style and color of ties for their successors to wear in fall.

May 17—Coleman Clarke establishes precedent on campus when he is married over the telephone to “mighty Marjorie Mitchell” of Wesleyan Conservatory. The right Reverend Marcus Hugh Kelly performs beautiful double ring ceremony. Rejected suitor commits suicide at A. T. O. house. Remains will be sent to Madison, Ga., for interment.

May 18—Freshman Ben Fitzpatrick, most obnoxious rat of class, is reported to have been out all night in B. S. U. Ford. His sweetheart from Bessie Tift was in town but another M. U. Freshman beat his time by giving his Sigma Pi as an engagement.

May 20—Only three more days of chapel in the term. Song books sail merrily through the air and Dr. Harrison tries his best to quell disturbance by his "Now, young gentlemen."

May 21—Dean Clark advises Seniors to apply at his office for measurements of caps and gowns. Seniors hold last class meeting and several announce that they will be unable to graduate on account of losing pass keys to registrar's office.

May 23—Faculty decides at last minute to abolish examinations but agree to pass all students who have bought them drinks as well as those who have carried them to ride.

May 26—Sam Overstreet, John Griffith, Omar Jones, Billy Storey, 'Ben Hur' Barrett, Raymond Phelds, William Sudderth and Donald Norman announce their engagements to prominent girls in state. All ceremonies to be performed simultaneously over radio of the Mercer Cluster with Rev. Joe P. Grant as announcer and official minister.

May 27—B. S. U. Herald issues special edition requesting students to be on their guard against sins of examinations and Big Commencement.

May 29—Big Commencement dances get under way, with everybody preparing for and anticipating a gala week-end.

June 1—Seniors required to attend Commencement sermon.

June 2—Senator Walter F. George, class of '00, is principal speaker at dedication of new law building.

June 3—Seniors weep bitterly as processional enters chapel for farewell program. Dr. Dowell grants diplomas to all athletes. Honors are conferred on Gerry Bowen, Bacon Greene, Loy Bryant, Red Adams, Yank Wright and Richard Magruder. Hugh Kelly leads in singing of Alma Mammy.

June 4—Editor and Business Manager of CAULDRON take inventory and find that they will have to work for Foote & Davies and Southwestern Engraving Company three years. Moral: Don't run for the CAULDRON.

MORE OPTIMISM

We have heard so much recently about optimism and its part in the life of a college man that we have drawn up a few abstracts that should put new heart into those who are discouraged. We figure it this way:

A man is born into the world without his own consent, and he leaves it against his will. If he cries when a baby, he’s a nuisance; if he doesn’t cry, he’s sickly. If he gets into mischief when a youngster, he’s an irrepressible brat; if he doesn’t, he’s a sissy. If he makes good grades in school, he’s the teacher’s pet; if he doesn’t, he’s just plain dumb.

If he goes to college, he’s wasting his time; if he takes a job after finishing high school, he’s throwing down life’s golden opportunity. If he sticks at college, he’s having more fun than he is work; if he goes home, he’s a quitter. If he makes a fraternity, it’s pull; if he doesn’t—“I told you so.” If he settles down to quiet life after leaving college, he’s abnormal; if he continues to raise the devil, he’ll never come to any good end.

If he dies young, he had a great future; if he lives to a ripe old age, he missed his calling. If he goes to church, he’s a hypocrite; if he takes no interest in religion, he’s a heathen. If he doesn’t give to charity, he’s a heartless brute; if he does, it’s for show. If he dresses well, he’s conceited; if he doesn’t, he’s negligent. If he enters politics, it’s for graft; if he doesn’t, he’s not a good citizen. If he favors prohibition, he’s narrowminded; if he’s against it, he’s undermining the Constitution. If he saves his money, he’s a tightwad; if he spends it, he’s a wastrel; if he gets it, he’s a crook; and if he doesn’t get it, he’s a bum.

So, cheer up—what’s the use?

MERCER UNIVERSITY
MACON, GEORGIA

"Where Christian Culture Counts"

SPRIGHT DOWELL, President

AN INSTITUTION RICH IN TRADITION, CHRISTIAN IN ATMOSPHERE, LIBERAL IN TONE, MODERN IN VIEWPOINT

MERCER offers, in the College of Liberal Arts, four-year courses leading to various professions—qualifies men for the business world in the School of Commerce—trains future teachers in the School of Education—equips students, in a CLASS A School of Law with a new $50,000 building, for the practice of law and for public life—provides theoretical and practical journalistic training in the Department of Journalism—prepares for medicine through pre-medical courses—prepares for the ministry and allied fields through the School of Christianity.

The Summer School, with attendance increasing each year, offers unusual advantages to teachers. In addition, the curriculum is made available to non-resident and other students through an expanding system of Home Study courses.

By use of the Cafeteria and the various dormitories, all under careful supervision, expenses of students may be kept within very reasonable bounds. College life is made pleasant in an environment in which friendliness and the family spirit prevail.

FORWARD

Today's perfection is beyond the one of past years—behind the one of years to come.

With study and experiment, maintenance of proven processes, vigilance in sales, service and manufacture, we are seeking an Ideal—an Ideal that we move ahead with the progress of our industry.

Thirty years' experience in Annual printing and binding is our background. Our restless urge is ever FORWARD.

FOOTE & DAVIES COMPANY
Atlanta, Georgia
Within the space of a score of years, the scope of Southwestern Engraving Company has increased from the parent plant in Fort Worth to an organization of nine plants.

Pioneering the field in the introduction of modernistic art, a personal service bureau composed of former college annual editors and managers, the budget and dummy system, and field service men, the name "Southwestern" has become synonymous with art motifs that are distinctive, an understanding, helpful service, and printing plates that "print right."
